Mrs. Eileene Kendrick, art teacher at Whittier School, talks with two Whittier students about some of the art work on display at an exhibit at the school Friday. The exhibits were all created by Whittier students and included mosaic, paper sculpture, clay, glass, and crayon etching. The art work is the result of a series of art classes, both day and night, given to the students of the school. The exhibit was viewed by members of the PTA on Thursday night. The two students in the above photo are Vickie Goldsmith, right, 11, and Beverly Berry, 10. Both are fifth graders.

For Yazoo River Basin

Nixon Pledges Federal Support

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — President Nixon and Democratic Sen. John C. Stennis flew over Mississippi's flood-ravaged Yazoo River basin today with the President pledging "full federal support for...recovery and rebuilding efforts."

Nixon, Stennis and their wives came to the senator's native state to dedicate a training center at the naval air station here in honor of Stennis, chairman of Senate Armed Services Committee.

Air Force I detoured along the way so Nixon and Stennis could see record-setting floods that Nixon said already had caused $147.5 million in property damage. Their aerial tour of the floods covered about 100 miles of waterlogged farm land and small communities from Greenville, Miss., to Vicksburg where the Yazoo meets the Mississippi River.

The two men saw parts of Louisiana and Arkansas, also hit by floods, during the flight.

Upon arrival in Meridian, Nixon announced he was today declaring Arkansas and Louisiana to be disaster areas eligible for federal aid. He had acted earlier to declare major disaster areas for Missouri, Illinois and Mississippi.

In a statement released by the White House as Nixon's airliner made a low-level flight over three states hit by the floods, the President said he had taken steps to insure that maximum federal assistance is available to those who have suffered.

He cited damage reports in the hundreds of millions of dollars and said "to deal with this emergency, federal agencies have been mobilized to assist state and local governments in the most massive flood-fighting effort of this country."

Nixon announced in the statement that he had declared Arkansas and Louisiana disaster areas, placing them on the list with Missouri, Illinois and Mississippi which were earlier declared disaster areas. He assured "all of the people who live in the stricken area that full federal assistance will be provided as long as needed."

He said he has asked Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz to make a special inspection tour of the Mississippi Valley from Moline, Ill., to Greenville, Miss., and to report his findings to him when he returned to Washington.

Nixon also said he had directed Darrell Trent, acting director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, to continue working with governors of the flood-hit states "and to keep me personally informed."

Trent was on board Nixon's jetliner when it made the flood inspection while en route to Meridian, Miss., for dedication of a naval facility named in honor of Sen. John J. Stennis, D-Miss.

The big jetliner flew over the swollen headwaters of the Yazoo River in Mississippi, then west to the Mississippi River and downstream to Vicksburg. From the air, Nixon said in his statement that he could see flood-damaged portions of Mississippi, southeastern Arkansas and northeastern Louisiana, "not closely enough to see the full dimensions of this tragedy but enough to get a better idea of the magnitude of the damage being done."

"Countless acts of heroism and sacrifice have been performed by the people of Mississippi and the other states hit by floods this spring, and remarkable resourcefulness in the face of adversity has been shown by the various state and local governments in the region," Nixon said.

"I am confident that the people and communities concerned can and will make a strong comeback from this tragedy, and I pledge full federal support for their recovery and rebuilding efforts."

Vacation, Home Section Sunday

This Sunday The Sedalia Democrat-Capital will publish a special section called "Directions, 1973," which discusses such subjects as vacations, travel, home improvements and other areas.

It is specifically designed to assist readers who plan home improvements this summer, or who hope to unwind via a camper vacation in distant places.

New products for vacation fun, new methods of making life easier at home and helpful gardening hints are only a part of this special section. Watch for "Directions, 1973," this Sunday.

Magruder Resigns; Gray's Is Requested

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sudden, unexplained resignation of former Nixon campaign deputy Jeb S. Magruder from the Commerce Department adds a new dimension to the Watergate scandal.

It was the first resignation of any high administration official involved in the widening wiretap affair.

In another development, Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., said his friend L. Patrick Gray, acting head of the FBI, had destroyed politically sensitive documents taken from the White House safe of Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt.

Weicker said Gray acted on orders of White House aides John D. Ehrlichman and John W. Dean III. Ehrlichman confirmed that he gave such materials to Gray, but denied ordering them destroyed. Dean couldn't be reached. Gray worked in his office today and avoided newsmen.

The destroyed files, taken from Hunt's office after last summer's Watergate raid, reportedly contained fake State Department cables purporting to implicate the late President John F. Kennedy in the 1963 assassination of South Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem.

After hearing the new disclosures, Sen. Robert C. Byrd, assistant majority leader of the Senate, called today for Gray and Dean to resign.

The West Virginia Democrat also added his voice to those calling for a special Watergate prosecutor to replace Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen, who is supervising a presidential inquiry into Watergate.

Magruder reportedly had been both an accuser and an accused in the case. He left his $36,000-a-year job as Commerce Department director of policy development without formal notice. His lawyer, James J. Bierbower, was asked late Thursday night for an explanation, and said flatly, "There will be none."

Recent news reports have quoted Magruder as telling federal prosecutors that Mitchell and Dean, the White House counsel, approved and helped plan last summer's wiretapping of Democratic offices. Magruder also reportedly said the pair later arranged payoffs to silence the defendants in the case.

Dean has said publicly he won't be a scapegoat and has vowed privately to implicate others. News reports say Magruder broke down only after Dean made accusations of his own to prosecutors.

Magruder has declined to speak to newsmen since reports of his accusations broke into print. His lawyer has said he advised him not to make public statements.

In other Watergate developments: —The Washington Post, quoting reliable sources, said that Dean told President Nixon on March 20 that "to save the presidency" Dean and Nixon's two top aides—H. R. Haldeman and Ehrlichman—would have to disclose all they knew about Watergate and face the possible consequence of going to jail. The Post said Dean told federal prosecutors all he knew on April 6 but Haldeman and Ehrlichman apparently balked.

—Presidential spokesman Ronald L. Ziegler said that neither the President nor anyone acting on his authority has approached anyone with the aim of recruiting him to replace present staff members or to direct a shakeup.

Various news reports have said Nixon has asked, or is about to ask, Secretary of State William P. Rogers, former Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, NATO Ambassador Donald Rumsfeld or former White House lobbyist Bryce Harlow. Harlow says he hasn't been asked. Laird says he isn't available. Sources close to Rogers say he hasn't been asked, either. Rumsfeld couldn't be reached.

—A lawyer representing two presidential aides in the Watergate scandal shuttled Thursday from the White House to the office of federal prosecutor Silbert.

Bond Will Withdraw Haynes' Nomination

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond said today he would withdraw the nomination of Edward Haynes as director of the personnel system because of "substantial questions" about procedures used in his selection.

Bond also said he wrote to Harold E. Cox of Columbia, the chairman of the Personnel Advisory Commission, asking the board to re-examine its procedures.

Bond cited two main factors for his decision:

1. No written examinations testing knowledge of personnel administration were given to 12 who were screened out for personal interviews despite established criteria that calls for knowledge to be tested.

2. There are "substantial questions" about the "propriety" of having two of the top three men write letters of waiver so Haynes, acting director of corrections this week, could be in the top three.

In addition, Bond said, several top persons from private industry were not allowed to take an oral examination for the $18,000-a-year job.

The personnel director heads the merit system, under which about 20,000 state workers are employed.

Forty-seven persons applied for the job last November. Twelve took an interview-type exam after they were given "written examination" scores.

Testimony before the Senate Gubernatorial Appointments Committee revealed there was no written test, just a written application.

Three men—Edward Godar, Michael Brettschneider and Robert Newell — were certified to Bond in January. Bond wasn't satisfied with the choices, and asked Godar and Brettschneider to write letters of waiver. They did and Newell refused.

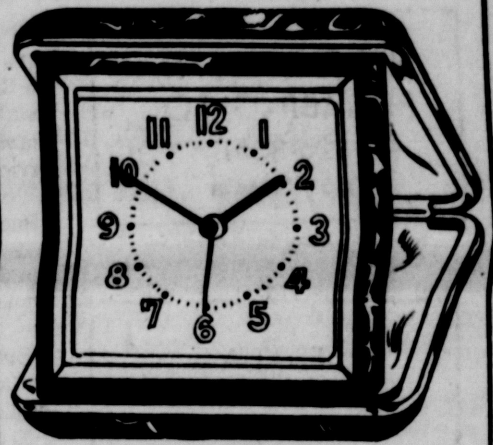

That put Haynes, who placed fifth on the grading system, into the top three of Newell, Haynes and Bobbie L. Hubbard onto the certification list in March.

Several senators claim there was no legal basis for the waiver letters.

Bond noted that in 1954, when Norris Steenberger was named to head the personnel system, Steenberger placed fourth in testing. Godar wrote a letter of waiver then.

"I continue to have the highest respect for Mr. Haynes' ability, dedication and record of service," Bond said.

Daylight Saving Begins Sunday

Most of the nation will lose an hour this weekend to make summer days seem longer.

Daylight Saving Time goes into effect at 2 a.m. Sunday, with those who remember setting their clocks ahead one hour.

The change applies throughout most of 48 states, with Hawaii and Arizona the last complete holdouts. In Indiana and Michigan, on the border between Central and Eastern time, the situation varies among different counties, with some ignoring the "faster" time.

Mississippi River Crests at Winfield

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Waters of the mighty Mississippi River crested this morning at Winfield, Mo., and rolled inexorably south, setting more high level records in the process at St. Louis and below.

A U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said the river, flowing at a fast pace, was gushing water under the Eads Bridge in St. Louis at a rate of 21.6 billion gallons an hour.

Meanwhile the Missouri River, which crested Thursday at St. Charles at 36.4 feet, was slowly receding.

The recession of the Missouri was slow, but the immediate threat of its forming another channel and joining the Mississippi upstream from West Alton, Mo., seemed diminished.

Had the new confluence of the rivers been formed, it would have made an island of an area comprising about 45 square miles and containing about 3,000 persons in northeast St. Charles County.

The flood crest of the Mississippi at Winfield, about 50 miles upstream from St. Louis, was measured at 36.9 feet, nearly 11 feet over flood level.

At St. Louis, where flood level is 30 feet, the river measured a record 42.4 feet in depth at 7 a.m., topping the old high level of 42 feet set in 1785.

The river measured 41.7 feet at Chester, Ill., south of St. Louis, 14.7 over flood level, and at 44.1 feet at Cape Girardeau, a figure 12.1 feet over flood stage.

Sandbagging efforts by 200 volunteers continued today on Missouri 94 in St. Charles County. A portion of the highway had already been closed.

About 600 persons residing in mobile homes in the north part of St. Charles were evacuated Thursday after a levee formed along the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad embankment was topped by the swollen Missouri.

The towns of West Alton and Portage des

Sioux were under water. The Coast Guard evacuated a few remaining residents from West Alton, a town of about 400. Deep water was reported in some homes at Portage des Sioux.

A helicopter pilot was injured slightly when his ship hit power lines and crashed near the Union Electric power plant near the city. The helicopter was one of five called to remove workers after a road became impassable.

The recent flooding claimed its 10th victim Thursday when Walter Huber, 32, an Indianapolis insurance man, drowned when his boat sank in the swollen Rock River near Rockford, Ill. Huber was assessing flood damage to homes along the river.

The Corps announced Thursday if the Mississippi reaches the 43.5-foot crest at St.

Memorandum Implicates Hunt, Liddy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The judge in the Pentagon papers trial revealed a secret memorandum today saying that Watergate defendants E. Howard Hunt and Gordon Liddy burglarized the files of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist and took Ellsberg's psychiatric records.

The revelation by U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne came after the government had submitted an envelope to the judge for his consideration. The judge said he could not accept it secretly, felt it concerned "the legal and constitutional rights of the defendants" and might possibly mean "a taint of evidence" in the four-month-old trial of Ellsberg and Anthony Russo.

He then read in open court the Justice Department memorandum dated April 16 and written by Earl J. Silbert, the principal assistant to the U.S. attorney.

The memorandum said that Silbert had received information that on an unspecified date Liddy and Hunt burglarized the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist. It did not give the location of the psychiatrist's office.

The judge said he is demanding an immediate investigation of the circumstances and will have the results of the investigation submitted to him secretly "to determine whether this...could affect the legal or constitutional rights of any defendant in this case or the legal or constitutional rights of anyone else involved in this case."

Jurors were not present when the revelation came, and it appeared that testimony would be delayed until the investigation is complete. The judge ordered the government to turn over the memorandum to the defendants immediately and Asst. U.S. Atty. David Nissen did not resist.

Recounts Accident

Three Sedalians were injured about 4 p.m. Thursday when the 1969 Plymouth in which they were riding was involved in a one-car accident on Route EE, about seven miles northeast of Sedalia. According to an unidentified witness, shown talking to Trooper Curt Mathews, the car, driven by Robert Joe Hartley, 17, 2100 South

Vermont, ran off the right side of the road, then returned to the roadway before overturning twice. Hartley was admitted to Bothwell Hospital with a fractured leg and pelvis. Two passengers, Connie Lynn Fisher, 17, Route 2, and Jeffrey Carl Diehl, 2400 South Quincy, were treated for injuries and released.

Stipulations Are Made For Exhumation of Body

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) — The family of the late Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., has given permission for exhumation of the senator's body if five conditions are met, the family lawyer said today.

One of the provisions is that the autopsy inquire into the progression of a brain tumor which the family said was discovered during an unpublished medical exam at Walter Reed Army Hospital Sept. 22, 1967.

The request for exhumation was made last week by Prosecuting Atty. Thomas I. Osborne of Audrain County, who was appointed special prosecutor in the case after Long's secretary, Miss Helen Dunlop, told authorities the senator may have been murdered by poisoned candy.

The Missouri Highway Patrol said Miss Dunlop, who has been named in a $3.25 million alienation of affection suit by Long's widow, was given a lie detector test in Jefferson City Thursday.

"A polygraph test was given to Miss Dunlop at Troop F headquarters and the results will be turned over to the Audrain County prosecutor who is investigating the alleged irregularities," Supt. Samuel S. Smith said today.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat said in a copyrighted story this morning that Miss Dunlop, who was Long's secretary for 26 years and was named executrix of the estate in his will, said she "told the truth" during the test.

Long, who died Nov. 6, left Mrs. Long and their daughter, Mrs. Frank Miller, $10 each in his will. He left the remainder of his estate, estimated at more than $2 million, to his 5-year-old granddaughter, Ann Miller. This will be being challenged in court by the Long family.

Miss Dunlop told authorities some four months after Long's death that he told her minutes before he died that he thought he had been poisoned by candy given to him by a Clayton, Mo., man.

The Globe-Democrat said the Clayton man reported that he received a thank-you note from Long three days before the former senator died, but the man denied sending the candy.

The death certificate said Long died of a stroke or a "cerebral vascular accident."

Marion F. Wasinger of Hannibal, the attorney for Mrs. Long, said he sent a letter of permission for the exhumation to Osborne today.

One provision said the autopsy must inquire into the progression of a brain tumor that Long had.

The attorney said the family had papers showing an enlarged growth affecting the pituitary gland was discovered during an examination five years before Long's death. He said the tumor would have required extensive surgery, which was never performed.

Other provisions specified in the letter were:

—The news media must be immediately informed of the autopsy results.

—Mrs. Long be supplied with a signed copy of the autopsy.

—Mrs. Long be permitted to have a pathologist of her own choosing as an observer at the autopsy.

—Osborne's office assume full liability for the exhumation, including the cost of reburial.

St. Louis Officials Pick Up Canadian

St. Louis Police Department officials Thursday morning picked up an 18-year-old Canadian held in the Pettis County jail since Sunday afternoon. Kenneth James Gallacher, Etobicoke, Toronto, Canada, was apprehended by Pettis County Sheriff's Department authorities after he was first seen "driving in an erratic manner" on East Highway 50 Sunday afternoon.

Gallacher was placed in the county jail for investigation of a license violation. After running a check on the car Gallacher was driving, sheriff's officers learned the vehicle had been stolen in St. Louis and that authorities there would issue an auto theft warrant against him.

Mississippi

Louis Saturday, $136 million in flood damage will have been caused in Missouri and Illinois. Current damage in the two states has been estimated at $43 million with 1.2 million acres inundated.

A graph compiled by the Corps indicated that if the river reached 43.0 here, damage would be $100 million and an additional half-foot would result in $36 million more damage.

"A few inches can mean a hell of a lot, when you're talking about the Mississippi," a spokesman said.

President Nixon, who declared portions of Illinois a disaster area Thursday and portions of Missouri last week, was scheduled to fly over the flooding Mississippi Valley today.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond toured flooded areas of St. Charles and Jefferson counties Thursday.

At Arnold, Mo., where 400 homes in a subdivision were sitting in the floodwaters of the Meramec River, a Mississippi tributary south of St. Louis, Bond said, "The government will provide all of the follow-up help. Our job is to see whatever is possible is done to prevent further damage."

The governor added that 2,000 Missouri National Guardsmen were on duty.

At Hannibal, north of St. Louis, the National Guard Army was flooded and could not be used as planned for a disaster center. A record crest of 28.4 feet, 12.4 over flood stage, was reached at Hannibal Wednesday.

All but 250 of Grafton, Illinois' 1,100 residents had been evacuated and a curfew was imposed to prevent looting. The Mississippi at Grafton was to crest at 32.5 feet Sunday, 14.5 feet over flood stage.

At Kaskaskia Island, Coast Guard boats were standing by to evacuate about 55 of the island's 200 residents.

A corps spokesman said the situation on the island Thursday night was "critical" because of the 43-foot predicted crest at nearby Chester, Ill., for Sunday. The remaining 55 residents were assisting corps officials in sandbagging operations designed to protect their homes.

A crest of 45 feet on Sunday was predicted for Cape Girardeau, Mo., where flood stage is 32 feet. Both Cape Girardeau and St. Louis are protected by floodwalls designed to withstand 52-foot floods.

About 10,000 persons were being fed by the American Red Cross. They were either affected by flooding or working to control high water in Missouri and Illinois.

A Salvation Army spokesman said that agency was feeding some 10,000 persons a day in the St. Louis area. The spokesman said the agency was buying canned goods and other items because of a dwindling food supply.

Commercial navigation on the Mississippi, Missouri and Illinois rivers has been halted because of the danger of wave-wash to threatened levees.

Bridges spanning the Mississippi to connect Missouri with Illinois remained open only at St. Louis, Chester and Cairo, Ill.

Say Woman's Death Due To Strangulation

SAN BERNADINO, Calif. — Mrs. Velma Mae Currier Ward, 70, formerly of the Knob Noster, Mo., area, was found dead in her home here early Thursday morning.

Her daughter, Mrs. Marshall Bryan, Warsaw, was told by a coroner here that an autopsy revealed death was caused by strangulation. It was not known by Mrs. Bryan if authorities are investigating the case.

Mrs. Ward was born May 18, 1903, in Aramo, Mo., daughter of the late William L. and Lucinda Lou Rogers.

She was reared and educated in Hutchinson, Kan., and in October, 1919, she was married to James S. Currier at Olean, Mo.

They lived many years in the Knob Noster area and he preceded her in death on Nov. 20, 1970.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Marshall (Ruby) Bryan, Warsaw; Mrs. Forest (Pauline) Bryan, Smithton; 11 grandchildren including Mrs. Sharon Wilborn, Route 2, Sedalia; Mrs. Judy Young, Smithton; and six great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Minor Injuries From Accident

A two-car accident on Lamine, between Fifth and Sixth, at 9:22 a.m. Friday, resulted in whiplash injuries to Mrs. Ernestine Lois Esser, 38, 2507 Greenwood, and her daughter, Debbie, 17.

According to police, the accident occurred when a car driven east on an alley by Thomas Nelson Tinker, 76, Ionia, collided with the Esser vehicle which was heading north on Lamine.

Mrs. Esser and her daughter were treated by a local physician following the accident.

Club Plans Dive In Park's Lagoon

The Sedalia Divers Club will hold its second annual dive at Liberty Park Lagoon at 3 p.m. Sunday, it was reported Friday. A similar dive last year resulted in the recovery of several park benches, numerous barrels and other trash.

The dive was originally scheduled for last Saturday and was cancelled due to severe weather the preceding day. Don Kabler is president of the club. It was reported the dive would probably last two hours. Its purpose is two-fold — to train members of the club in various diving procedures and to help clean the lagoon.

$60,000 Damage Suit Filed Here

A two count, $60,000 damage suit was filed in Pettis County Circuit Court Friday.

The petition, filed by Floyd R. and Judith J. Weston, Route 3, and their 10-year-old daughter, Tonja, names Lloyd K. Street, 48, Green Ridge, as the defendant.

The suit alleges that on March 22, 1972, Tonja Weston received injuries when she was struck by a car driven by Street on Highway 127 about five miles south of LaMonte. The petition contends that Tonja Weston was crossing the highway to board a school bus when the accident occurred.

Tonja Weston seeks $60,000 for alleged injuries in the first count of the suit. Her parents are asking for $10,000.

'Quota System' For Delegates May Be Shed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic party reformers today consider recommendations that include shedding a delegate "quota system" that figured in Sen. George McGovern's presidential nomination.

Lumped together as the Commission on Delegate Selection and Party Structure, the reformers were told by the 1972 convention to study the McGovern rules and recommend changes or improvements. He initially chaired the group.

On the eve of the commission's first meeting, a group of middle-of-the-roads called for major revision of the McGovern guidelines.

The Coalition for a Democratic Majority recommended a revision of the rule which resulted in the so-called "quotas" for women, minorities and youth in convention delegations.

In place of such a system, the CDM suggested the requirement of a good faith effort to balance delegations.

The object of the recommendations would be elimination of features which enabled McGovern to rise from distant dark horse status to the party's presidential nominee.

The group recommended that the rule on open slatemaking be dropped. This rule led to Chicago Mayor Richard Daley's slate of delegates being excluded from last year's convention.

A tactic crucial to McGovern's victory—packing local delegate-selection caucuses—would be prevented by another rule revision.

In addition, the CDM suggested that Democratic governors, senators and House members be made automatic delegates, that state party organizations elect up to 20 per cent of the delegates, and that rules be tightened to prevent defection of delegates won by candidates in primaries.

Workers Defend Government Action

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The Central Organization of Workers called an emergency meeting today to "mobilize immediately in defense of the government" following demonstrations against the Marxist regime by most of Santiago's 110,000 high school students.

Jorge Godoy, the Socialist president of the country's labor federation, promised that workers would make daily demonstrations in support of the government.

The labor chieftain met late Thursday with President Salvador Allende.

"We will not tolerate any insolence from the reactionaries," Godoy said. He claimed Thursday's young demonstrators were "politically manipulated" and their parents "should order them off the streets."

There were continuous disturbances in the city Thursday, and more than 250 persons were arrested and 100 hurt. One student threw a Molotov cocktail against the presidential palace, and a barrage of cobblestones broke more than 30 of the palace windows.

Calm was restored by evening. But in a 20-block area downtown shop windows were broken, rocks and smoldering debris littered the streets and tear gas hung in the air.

Rebels Call For Riots, Protests

PHNOM PENH (AP) — With enemy forces as close as two miles from this capital, Cambodia's Communist rebels called today for riots and protests to overthrow the government of President Lon Nol. They said their artillery now can hit any point in Phnom Penh.

The Khmer Rouge—Cambodian Reds—urged in a clandestine radio broadcast that Cambodians living in government-controlled areas rise up against the president who earlier in the week agreed to the creation of a four-man High Political Council, including himself and three non-Communist oppositionists, to rule the republic.

The broadcast claimed government leaders, including those Lon Nol agreed to bring into a new government, were in panic.

The Cambodian government has acknowledged that antigovernment forces were fighting in at least one place only two miles from downtown Phnom Penh.

Military sources placed the number of enemy troops poised on the east bank of the Mekong opposite Phnom Penh at 5,000 men and said they control about 30 miles of territory in that area.

U. S. jets bombed the enemy positions Thursday as people in Phnom Penh watched from a riverside mall.

The Cambodian government said the enemy troops had seized outlying river villages of Prek Luong and Mat Krasas Khnouh but that fighting continued at Aei Ksath, two miles from Phnom Penh's center.

Action also was reported Thursday to the west and southwest of the capital.

In South Vietnam, the initial exchange of Vietnamese civilian prisoners was postponed from today until Saturday.

Sources close to the four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision said in Saigon the Indonesian delegation postponed the exchange because it was not satisfied with the security arrangements for the trip to the site at Loc Ninh, the Viet Cong headquarters 75 miles north of Saigon.

Indonesia's chief delegate is the current chairman of the commission.

Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, chief spokesman for the Saigon command, said the postponement did not involve any dispute with the Viet Cong.

Hien said that to make up for the delay, present plans called for the Saigon government to release 400 Communist prisoners at Loc Ninh on Saturday.

Head Start Goals Are Explained

The organization and goals of the Head Start program were explained to Sedalia Kiwanians at their meeting Thursday noon at the Bothwell Hotel.

Mrs. Amanda Wade, social services director of Head Start here, said the program is designed to aid the early childhood development of youngsters physically, intellectually, socially and emotionally.

The local program is funded 80 per cent by the federal government, Mrs. Wade said, and reaches 40 children with half-day classes. The Sedalia Head Start program is one of 11 in the Missouri Valley Human Resource Development Corp., based in Corder. The program is located in the old St. Patrick's school building.

Head Start teachers do not teach in the traditional sense, but are "enrichment providers," Mrs. Wade said. She added that although Head Start can make a significant difference in early grades, children revert to their original level by the third grade unless there is follow-through.

Roy Brown introduced the program.

Three airmen of the quarter at Whiteman AFB were guests of the club: T-Sgt. Ames Stewart, M-Sgt. John Eldridge, and Sgt. Alan Kean, and were presented plaques by President Bob Fritz. Stewart and Eldridge were accompanied by their wives, who received corsages. Also present was Bob Beykirch, chairman of the military affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Ken Romines was a guest of Jim Rice.

Abe Rosenthal led singing, accompanied by Mrs. Keith Maynard. Wendell Smith gave the invocation.

Will Name Officers

WARRENSBURG — An election of officers will highlight the meeting of the West Central Missouri International Reading Council at 6:30 p.m. May 10 at the Holiday Inn here.

Mrs. Virginia Yates, IRA field consultant, will be the guest speaker.

'Granny Clampett' Dies

Irene Ryan, whose portrayal of "Granny Clampett" helped make "The Beverly Hillbillies" one of the most successful television series ever, died

Thursday at 70. At left she appears in a normal portrait, made in 1962, and at right she appears in her role as "Granny." (UPI)

TV Star Irene Ryan Dies

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — To millions of viewers who watched "The Beverly Hillbillies" during its nine-year run on television, diminutive Irene Ryan was the "Granny" who kept her backwoods kin in line with her sometimes-shrill voice. She once said, "That's how most people recognize me, through my voice. I'd lot rather be known as 'The Body,' but I guess I'll have to be content with what I got."

The veteran actress, who recently made her Broadway debut in "Pippin," died Thursday night at a Santa Monica hospital after suffering a stroke. She was 70.

She was flown here after being stricken on the "Pippin" stage March 10.

Miss Ryan had become a millionaire through savings and investments from "The Beverly Hillbillies," a comedy about a family that struck it rich on oil. She had endowed a foundation bearing her name with more than $1 million in scholarships for promising students in theater arts. She was scheduled to be present Sunday at this year's presentations at the John F. Kennedy Center for Performing Arts in Washington.

Her career began at age 11 when she sang "Pretty Baby" as loudly as she could in winning $3 in an amateur contest at San Francisco's old Valencia Theater.

With her late first husband, Tim Ryan, the comedy team of "Tim and Irene" toured vaudeville for years, then made it to radio.

Starting in 1962, on "The Beverly Hillbillies" she became known as the forceful "Granny" who liked to puff a pipe, tote a rifle and try to put good sense into Beverly Hills when the television family moved from hillbilly country after striking oil.

Her role in "Pippin" had earned her a Tony nomination and her song from the show, "No Time At All," was a recording hit.

Wording Question To Court

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The question of whether the governor can change the wording of bills passed by the Missouri legislature has gone to the Missouri Supreme Court.

Legislative leaders filed suit Thursday, challenging the action of Gov. Christopher S. Bond in striking words from an emergency appropriations bill last month.

When he learned of plans to file the suit, Bond said he welcomed the test and noted that past governors have changed the wording in appropriations bills.

Bond deleted the words "west side" in the section on renovating the state capitol, but he said the appropriations chairmen agreed that $96,000 could be used for office space. He cited other instances in which he sought to clarify the meaning of the bill.

The suit, a mandamus action, does not challenge Bond's authority to delete sections of the bill, but is aimed at forcing the governor to follow the intent of the wording in the sections he approves.

The suit quotes the state Constitution as saying the governor can object to "items or portions of items of appropriation of money in any bill presented to him, while approving other portions of the bill."

A brief filed by the legislators said the Constitution limits the governor's partial veto power to "either all the money appropriated for one or more purposes, or only a portion of the money appropriated for one or more purposes."

It said there is no constitutional authority to change the purposes specified by the General Assembly.

The suit also names state Treasurer James I. Spainhower as a defendant because he releases state funds.

Flood Peak Relieves St. Charles Officials

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (AP) — Officials here smiled with relief when the swollen Missouri River began to recede late Thursday after hitting a height of 36.1 feet.

The peak at St. Charles, 25 miles upstream from where the Missouri joins the Mississippi was six-tenths of a foot below the predicted crest. It could be good news for downriver points.

"It may not seem like much, but it's so important to us," said an Corps of Army Engineers technician.

"That tenth may be the difference between the river topping a levee or just lapping at it... between water leveled at someone's foundation and going into his basement," he said.

"The water—the river—always seeks its own level, behind a levee or inside a basement."

The Missouri channel usually runs swiftly and comfortably a half mile from downtown St. Charles and on the other side of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad tracks.

But on Thursday the river was above those tracks for a brief time. A few of the older townspeople gathered to watch and they agreed, "Nothing like it since 1951."

One of them recalled, "That year it flooded in February, again in April and again in June. Watch out for June." The others nodded.

At St. Peter's Church, an official of the Department of Housing and Urban Development was making plans to provide replacement housing for flood victims.

"Some of these people won't get back to their homes for at least a year," said Robert Lingo, a HUD disaster specialist from Topeka, Kan. "The problem is I have to get to their houses so I can assess the damage."

One of the estimated 1,000 homeless persons from the triangle of land turned into a lake by the confluence of the two great rivers, gave Lingo directions.

"By boat—south shore up the river to Club Holiday—15 minutes to the paddle wheel house—go south—the house across from the yellow boat."

At the First Methodist Church, which served as the main refugee center, Red Cross official Gary Sharp said about 700 of the homeless were from trailer parks northeast of St. Charles on the northern bank of the Missouri.

"Only about 75 came in last night, but I think most of them just stood around watching their homes get flooded. Tonight, they'll come here to eat and sleep."

Pat Cronin managed one of the trailer parks. He moved his trailer Tuesday from the rising water.

"Cost me $50," he said. "Those guys moving trailers are really making it. A half hour job for $50. No checks, cash only. A lot of people didn't have it."

Flooding Fun

The worst flood in over 200 years isn't necessarily all bad, at least for some. These two youngsters derive some playful moments by splashing each other in south St. Louis near the River Des Peres that runs into the Mississippi River. (UPI)

Watergate's Impact Blamed For Low Morale

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Watergate scandal, its impact rippling through vast reaches of the government, is cited by official sources as one reason for the White House's inability to fill nearly 50 top-level federal jobs.

Sources contacted in an Associated Press survey also reported instances of paperwork piling up and employee morale sagging because of Watergate, because of President Nixon's second-term reorganization plan, or the lame-duck aspect of his administration.

White House spokesmen reject suggestions that Watergate is to blame for the lag in rounding out Nixon's second-term team or that it has slowed the bureaucratic processes.

"The processes of government are going on... the work of government is being done," said White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

But other sources report a near-paralysis has set in at some policy-making levels in the 10 days since Nixon announced he had launched a personal investigation of the Watergate case after major but still undisclosed developments came to his attention.

The AP survey stretching into widespread sections of the federal establishment also found:

—A White House breakdown shows 26 sub-Cabinet posts remain unfilled three months after Nixon began his second term and launched his reorganization plan. In the upper levels of some departments, the vacancy rate exceeds 25 per cent.

—Ambassadors are yet to be named for 23 countries, a vacancy rate of 18 per cent in these top diplomatic posts.

—Latest statistics indicate more than 400 vacancies in lower- and middle-level "Schedule C" government jobs, meaning that about 30 per cent of these jobs, filled by political appointment, are empty.

—Reports mandated by the President or Congress are long overdue in some cases. At the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, one source familiar with the lagging bureaucratic pace said "people are waiting for new bosses to get new directions."

—Low morale is cited virtually everywhere in government. "You'd be surprised how Watergate has affected morale," said an Agriculture Department source. "The trauma has really set in," added a Social Security Administration source.

—At the White House, some staffers have noted a sudden slowing in their usually hectic work pace. One Executive Office Building secretary said that for the first time in years she's been able to go home before dark because "nothing is coming in from the departments."

The President's own work pace has increased, however.

He's been spending "a great deal of time" on the Watergate matter, Ziegler said, "getting in very early and staying late at night."

When asked Thursday about the large number of sub-Cabinet and ambassadorial vacancies, Ziegler responded: "I don't have the answer to why that is the case...."

Other White House officials said the process of filling executive positions has been slow because "we're trying to get top people." Some prospective nominees aren't interested in taking pay cuts to join the administration, one spokesman said.

Caspar Weinberger, Nixon's new secretary of health, education and welfare, cited another reason in a recent conversation with newsmen. The biggest problem, he said, is that the wives of potential government executives don't want to uproot their families and move to Washington.

But another administration official agreed "there is a certain amount of truth" to suggestions that the Watergate scandal has made some people reluctant to join the administration.

The White House compilation shows that 12.7 per cent of the 205 positions it ranks as "sub-Cabinet" are currently vacant. But at some departments, more than one-fourth of these positions are empty.

Students Staging Mock U.N. Debates

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — "This is probably the best experience in role-playing I'll ever have. After all, I'm a card-carrying Zionist," said 19-year-old Paula Tobenfeld.

Paula is a freshman at Kent State University who ardently supports the cause of Israel. This week, she's a Soviet delegate attacking Israel at an all-student simulated session of the United Nations.

"For my speech in the Security Council, it was suggested I compare Zionism to Nazism, but I wouldn't go that far," said Paula, who belongs to Masada, a Zionist youth movement.

Paula, who would like to be a diplomat, said: "The most important thing a country or a person can do is to understand what the other fellow is thinking. I don't agree with many policies of the Soviet Union, but this way I can understand why they are doing what they do. I think that is what the U.N. is all about."

More than 1,000 young Americans from 130 colleges and universities have gathered in New York to stage mock debates at the annual National Model United Nations. They meet with U.N. diplomats and officials at foreign missions or U.N. headquarters and hold their simulated sessions at a midtown Manhattan hotel.

Policies of countries are followed faithfully, but "poetic license" and more direct language is permitted than heard at the real United Nations. Security Council President Robert Burstein, 21, of the New York Law College, said.

Tom Chelton, 21, of Indiana State University, Terre Haute, heads the U.S. General Assembly delegation. He said the U.S. role is one of the most challenging of all.

It means "representing the wealthiest nation in the world and at the same time being for peace and security, avoiding alienation of Third World countries, gaining support of African states and achieving rapprochement of the Soviet Union," he said.

Fewer People and More Animals Getting Tattoos

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fewer people and more animals are getting tattoos, the National Geographic Society says.

A survey indicates that the concern of health authorities about disease from contaminated needles largely has prompted the closing of many tattoo parlors throughout the world, a society spokesman said Thursday.

In a report on the tattoo front, the society said:

"As more tattoo parlors close in the world's seaports, the number of people acquiring epidermal artwork is declining. But growing numbers of pets and livestock now sport tattoos."

"For several years, race horses have had identifying numbers tattooed inside their lips to prevent 'fixing' a race by substituting a skillfully dyed faster horse for one originally entered.

"Poultry farmers brand their turkeys with tattoos under the wings to facilitate recovery in case of theft. And dog owners have begun putting registered marks or numbers inside their pet's ears to combat dog-nappers."

The NGS spokesman who prepared the roundup report said tightened health laws in the United States and in various foreign countries have apparently been the chief reason for such statistics as these:

As of early 1972, only 50 tattoo parlors remained in the United States, and only about 150 others throughout the rest of the world.

This compares, he said, with the situation at the turn of the century when, for example, "80 per cent of all American sailors had tattoos."

Discrimination Suit Is Filed

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A suit charging discrimination against black applicants for faculty and staff positions was filed in U.S. District Court here Thursday against the Jennings, Mo., school district.

The suit, which was filed by the Justice Department, said the St. Louis County district had failed consistently to employ black applicants, even when they were as well or better qualified for the positions than the whites who were eventually hired.

The government's suit was not a surprise, according to Melvin Foehse, a Jennings school board member.

"We were aware that the federal government had looked into our files and had investigated our hiring practices," said Foehse, who added that the district employs one black faculty member and has 171 white teachers.

The Jennings district was charged with refusing to use objective and nondiscriminatory selection procedures for employment in violation of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The suit sought an injunction against the district and asked for orders of employment and back pay for blacks who were discriminatorily rejected for employment.

Crash Kills Three From Kirksville

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three Kirksville, Mo., residents were killed Thursday evening in a three-car crash on U.S. 63 two miles north of Atlanta in Macon County.

They were Aaron Charles McClanahan, 54; Samuel William Vice, 65, and his wife, Verdie Flossie Vice, 60. Five persons were injured.

The highway patrol said the accident resulted when a car stopped to make a left turn off the highway. The car in which McClanahan was riding was knocked into a head-on collision with the Vice car, the patrol said.

Donald E. Harvey, 33, of Atchison, Kan., was injured fatally on U.S. 59 three miles east of Atchison in Buchanan County Thursday afternoon. He was the victim of a two-car collision.

Lee O. Jump, 52, of Bolivar, Mo., died in a hospital at Washington, Mo., Thursday evening of injuries suffered Wednesday night on Interstate 44 near Saint Clair.

Ray Believes He Will Get Out of Jail

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray, the convicted assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., says he believes he will eventually get out of prison.

Ray, serving 99 years at the Tennessee State Prison for the April 4, 1968, Memphis slaying of the civil rights leader, made the statement Thursday in the first interview since his trial.

"I think I'll get out of here sooner or later," he told a group of newsmen at the prison. He did not elaborate.

Ray, 45, quoted prison officials as telling him he will be kept in solitary confinement until he abandons efforts to get a new trial.

He said officials told him privately, "If you just stop your appeals, we'll treat you like everybody else."

Jim Rose, warden at the prison, said Ray's accusation is nonsense. He said Ray is kept in the maximum security unit because he is considered an extreme security risk in light of two escape attempts from Brushy Mountain State Prison in Petros, Tenn., where Ray previously had been held.

Grease Tube Pans These Easy Ways

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Bella easily can prepare her tube pan for baking by using a piece of paper toweling for the greasing and then sprinkling flour from a flour shaker. Or she can use a large salt shaker with big holes and find this is an ideal way. — MRS. C. L. W.

DEAR POLLY — Bella will have no more trouble or mess when greasing and flouring a tube cake pan if she creams one cup of shortening with one-half cup flour and uses a brush to paint this mixture all over the inside of the pan. The balance of the mixture can be kept in the ice box until needed again but always let it warm to room temperature before using. — L. J. C.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I do hope some reader will help me as so many others have been helped. I would like to mark the bottoms of my many pieces of hand-painted china for my children but do not know what to use that will not wash off. Those who painted the china signed their names and the dates on the backs. These do not wash off. I do hope someone who does hand painting can tell me what to use that will be permanent. — JESSIE

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with grocery store cashiers who ring up the deposits on bottles along with the other groceries so that we pay tax on this deposit. Deposit money is not a purchase and should not be taxed. It should be rung up after the tax is added. — CAROL

DEAR POLLY — I have six sons and the shower seems to be in use constantly. During the holidays some of the shower curtain rings broke and this left the curtain sagging. I did not have time to shop for rings so used those wire twistlers that come in a box of plastic bags. I put them through the shower curtain holes and twisted them after they were put around the rod. — DELORES

DEAR POLLY — This may be an old trick to you but I just discovered it today. Plastic sandwich bags are too expensive for my budget. When I use a loaf of bread or anything that comes in a plastic bag I cut the bag to the desired size, lay the bottom edges together and place barely between the side folds of a grocery bag (so iron does not touch the plastic) and press with a hot iron for a few seconds. If the side is cut, the same thing is done. These are great for packing cookies, candy and chips to go in the kids' lunch boxes. — GAIL

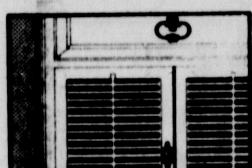

DEAR POLLY and Mrs. K. L. H. — We have had electric baseboard heating units for 13 years and I have experimented with different window curtain lengths. For an informal treatment she could have her curtains stop at the bottom of the window trim and for a more formal one they could come down to the top of the baseboard heater, being sure to clear them by about 1/4 of an inch. No matter what any salesman tells her she should not place draperies over the heaters. The man who installed ours said it was perfectly safe to put floor length draperies in front of the heating units as they would not get hot enough to be dangerous. This is in itself true BUT someone pushed a chair against our wall pushing the drapery tight against the heater. The corner of the curtain became wedged in an opening in the heater and it caught fire. Luckily I was at home and smelled it. Even now I shudder to think of what could have happened. If Mrs. K. L. H.'s heaters have openings (air vents) she will need to caution her children about sticking pencils, fingers and so on in the vents. A crayon can make a mess as it melts and does not smell nice when burning. Also watch out for your animals — our cat laid against the warm heater and her tail became stuck in the vent. — GEORGIA

DEAR READERS — The Electric Comfort Heating Equipment Section of the National Electrical Manufacturers Assn., makes the following recommendations concerning drapery hanging: "Draperies should hang at least one-inch in front of the heater and one-half inch above the carpet and below the ceiling. Material, to be suitable for draperies, should not discolor, shrink or stretch even after 1,000 hours exposure to a temperature of 200 degrees F. For the best heat flow and even distribution, furniture should be at least six inches from baseboard heaters, with at least three inches minimum clearance from the floor. Furniture should be placed away from forced air or radiant heaters, too." — POLLY

Congress, Nixon Still at Odds

Fourth District Congressman William J. Randall, D-Mo., said at a meeting of the Sedalia Jaycees Thursday night that Congress and the executive branch of the national government are "still engaged in what could be called the Great Confrontation" over executive power.

The Independence Democrat told his audience Congress will reassert itself in its wrestling match with the Nixon administration over executive privilege and impounding funds for legislative programs. Randall declared, the President "will never be able to sustain" his impoundment of $18 billion in congressionally-approved funds. He said Nixon has acted with the mistaken belief that withholding funds is a way to avoid a tax increase.

"There has to be a resolution of this problem," Randall said, "and I hope it ends short of the courts." He joked that some congressmen are saying Nixon is betting his lawyers will beat Congress' attorneys in "his" Supreme Court.

Four measures to re-establish Congress' role in government are now before that body, according to Randall. One measure, which originated in the House of Representatives, provides for an ad hoc committee made up of members of both houses to establish a spending ceiling for each month. To discourage violation of the ceiling, a surcharge would be added to the income tax bearing the name of any legislator sponsoring funding measures in excess of the ceiling. Randall said he supports such a measure.

Suitor Sues His Former Lady Friend

EUFULA, Okla. (AP) — Rejected suitor Mark Ogden has filed a claim of $150 against his former lady friend and her present suitor for damage to his partial plate.

Ogden, 60, Eufaula, told McIntosh District Court officials his suit against Mrs. Opal Sneed, Checotah widow, was for "Jaw damage" while a suit against Jess Pendergraft, also of Checotah, charged such damages as loss of sleep, loss of work and mental strain.

Ogden seeks $150 from Mrs. Sneed and $395 from Pendergraft. In Oklahoma, claims in Small Claims Court cannot exceed $400.

Ogden said he was struck about the face recently at Checotah by Mrs. Sneed after the conclusion of a previous damage suit against Pendergraft.

Hawaiian Quake Injures Eight

HILO, Hawaii (AP) — An earthquake which shook the Hawaiian island chain did moderate damage to structures in Hilo, the state's second largest city. Police said eight persons were injured, but no deaths were reported.

The tremor struck Thursday with its epicenter located a dozen miles north of Hilo—a sea coast town of 26,000 persons—at a depth of about 25 miles, said Bob Shanks, chief of the state civil defense agency in Honolulu.

William Randall

A similar proposal originated in the Senate under the sponsorship of Sen. William Brock, R-Tenn. Randall explained the Brock proposal would withhold full funding of any new measure until it had undergone a two-year pilot program.

The Brock bill also calls for a zero-based budget. According to Randall, programs funded by Congress would come under the scrutiny of that body every three years in Brock's plan. "It's going to be quite a chore to pass," noted Randall. However, he added the measure may carry his sponsorship in the House.

He said two similar measures deal specifically with impoundment of funds. Under these proposals, the executive branch would be required to justify such action before it could become effective.

Asked what section of the Constitution provides for executive privilege, Randall said, "the constitutional lawyers say there is none." Concerning presidential powers in "police actions" that evolve into wars, Randall said, "Right now some of us can't find any justification for what he's (Nixon) doing in Southeast Asia." He explained that the U.S. is "now involved in its second Cambodian incursion." Later, in an interview, Randall said he opposed the current bombing in Southeast Asia.

"I believe we've done everything we can to assist in Vietnamization," stated Randall. He said he supported Nixon's policies until the ground troops had been removed and POW's returned. "But now," he declared, "we're out, let's stay out."

He said since the cease-fire has been reached in Vietnam, "I know of no legal basis of any kind for this (bombing)." Further Randall stated when funding for continuation of such bombing comes before the House in June or July, "I'll vote against it."

Randall emphasized his position on the bombing in Cambodia in no way indicated he had changed his support of a strong defense posture.

Questioned about the Middle East situation, Randall said, "We might have to change our entire diplomatic position toward Israel." The about-face in foreign policy, according to Randall, may be necessitated by the energy crisis. He explained the U.S. will probably have to deal with the Arab nations to meet its need for oil.

In negotiating with the Arab world for oil, Randall said the only export the U.S. has which could compete with world trade is agricultural. He said cuts in the Department of Agriculture's budget dealt severe blows to the potential of farm exports.

Disaster funds, carved away by the administration, Randall noted, would have given aid to farmers whose production has been cut by recent flooding. Asked what the family farmer will do without disaster funds, Randall said simply, "They're going to have to do without." He called Nixon's handling of the American farmer "a disaster."

Orchestra Entertains School's PTA

The Whittier PTA met Thursday afternoon in the school gymnasium, where the school orchestra performed and officers were elected.

The orchestra, under the direction of Mrs. Edith Donath, played four selections, featuring solo efforts by Guy Arnwine and John Martin.

A school art fair was arranged by Miss Eileen Kendrick.

Officers elected during the business meeting were Mrs. Jerry Sublett, president; Mrs. Robert Marker, first vice-president; Mrs. Kenneth Smith, second vice-president; Mrs. Beryl McCoy, third vice-president; Mrs. Donald Ragar, secretary; and Mrs. Gloria Shephard, treasurer.

Soldier Not Entitled To Money

WASHINGTON (AP)—Donald W. Morrison may have found $150,000 while on a patrol in Vietnam in 1968, says a federal claims commissioner, but he isn't entitled to keep it because he was acting as "an agent of the United States."

Commissioner Kenneth R. Harkins recommended Thursday that the U.S. Court of Claims turn down the former soldier's petition to regain the money, his third setback in efforts to lay hands on the cash he found in the mountains of South Vietnam.

Earlier, both the Defense Department and a federal district court judge in Morrison's case turned down his request for the money.

Morrison contends the money is his because it constitutes a "treasure trove." When Morrison discovered the money, Harkins said, "he did so as an agent of the United States" and is not a "finder" of the $150,000.

Now working for the Georgia Highway Department, Morrison said he and other soldiers had patrolled a natural cave and had found some Vietnamese piasters and some papers written in what he called "Chinese language."

As he was leaving the cave, "I just happened to flash my flashlight up and about 10 feet high. I could see half of a can sticking out," Morrison said he called the rest of his patrol back into the cave and lifted a Vietnamese scout to reach the can.

"He handed the can to me," Morrison said. "I sat down and opened it up. All I could see were $50 bills in three stacks."

The money was given to the squad leader, Lt. Dan Dorsey II, who gave it to the company commander.

Morrison never saw the money again.

In the fall, lawns can be patrolled with power leaf blowers, which pile leaves up, or power leaf vacuums which suck them into a big bag.

Objection Stems From Role Imitation

Dear Ann Landers: I disagree with your notion that young boys should be discouraged from playing with dolls and young girls ought not to play with toy guns. You seemed to think that these youngsters would be confused about their sex roles and just might possibly grow up to be queer.

What's the matter with boys learning to be fathers the same way girls learn to be mothers? One of the major problems in our family was that my dad never had anything to do with his children. As for guns, I played Cowboys and Indians with my brothers until I was in my early teens and I still love to hunt and shoot. So far as I know I am perfectly normal.

Please change your advice before you do some serious damage. Millions of people accept your word as gospel. — I'm O.K., How Are You?

Dear O.K.: Thanks for your letter, but the advice stands as stated. I see nothing wrong in boys playing with dolls at a very early age, but when they get to be ten and eleven, they should not continue to imitate their mothers, which is the thrust of my objection.

As for girls playing with toy guns, I am opposed to toy guns for BOTH girls and boys, of any age. Guns are for killing and there are already too many gun-lovers loose in this "dangerous and untidy world."

Clean-Up Task In City Not Completed Yet

City Engineer Robert Cunningham and Street Superintendent Vernon Ditton Thursday indicated that cleanup efforts by city crews, in the aftermath of last weekend's wind and rain damage, are progressing but are not yet complete.

"We've got most of the tree limbs and trees themselves out of the way," Ditton said. "It's lucky most of them didn't have a lot of leaves because if they did, a lot more would have blown over."

Cunningham said most of the remaining cleanup work will involve the removal of gravel from streets. The gravel, he explained, was washed onto the streets from alleys and private driveways by the torrential rainfalls.

Also, Cunningham said, a great deal of debris was blown into curb inlets and catch basins throughout the city. This trash, he indicated, has not been completely picked up yet, but should be disposed of in the near future.

Dear Ann Landers: I worked as a salesperson for five years and decided to go to secretarial school at age 29. It was a wonderful decision and I have an excellent position with a good firm.

My first problem has arisen and I don't know how to cope with it. The boss left for an overseas trip last week. I decided to be super-efficient and straighten out his disheveled desk drawers. Unfortunately, I came across some pornographic pictures and obscene literature which I wish I had never seen. When he returns he will know I saw it because his drawers will be orderly. I'm afraid we both will be embarrassed. What should I do? — Meant Well In Jacksonville

Dear M.W.: Put the drawers back the way they were. And from now on, stay out of the boss's desk.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell me if you think I am overly sensitive. The problem concerns our grandchildren, aged 11, 12 and 13. They have never given their grandfather or me a little gift of any kind.

Not that we need anything, mind you, but how we would appreciate a box of homemade cookies, or something turned out in school. I see my friends with their hand-hemmed dish towels, pot holders, a paper plant, a corner bracket made in woodwork and wrapped in second-hand gift paper but carried in loving hands.

I tell myself it's not their fault, these little ones — that their parents never taught them to give, just take. Every year

Develop Test For Measuring Pot in Blood

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston scientist says his team's development of a test to measure minute amounts of marijuana in the blood is a big breakthrough in marijuana research.

Dr. David C. Fenimore's findings were made in rabbits, but the researcher said Thursday he hopes human blood studies can start within six months.

"What we've done could be likened to the blood alcohol test," he said. "Our test should open the door for finding answers to many questions about the effects of marijuana on humans."

Fenimore said his technique paves the way for scientists to measure the exact amount of marijuana in human blood at any given time and correlate that data with heart rates, behavioral patterns and other vital information.

since they have been old enough to talk they've let us know what they want for Christmas, and we never disappointed them. Am I expecting too much? — A Grandma

Dear Grandma: Children can learn from grandparents as well as parents. Eleven-, 12- and 13-year-olds are not babies. They will understand when you tell them that people should be givers as well as takers. And I hope you will provide them with this Lesson in Living in the presence of their parents. They might learn something, too.

Carl Rowan

Anderson can print whatever he finds

WASHINGTON — Columnist Jack Anderson has got the entire 15-man federal district court here upset.

Rowan

Anderson has been running verbatim accounts of who said what to the grand jury in the Watergate scandal, and the judges have asked for a grand jury probe of how Anderson got transcripts of the testimony. They just might try to force Anderson to reveal his sources to the jury.

Anderson doesn't need me to defend him. I couldn't, since I have no idea how, where, when or from whom he got transcripts of the testimony.

But I can and will defend a vital public interest in Anderson's right to print whatever he can dig up in this case.

Even in a grand jury proceeding, the press must be totally free to dig out and print whatever it can get, without regard for cries that certain revelations "jeopardize the prosecution."

Both the public and the accused, or those who face possible indictment, need the protection of a free press.

The public simply must understand that in grand jury proceedings the U.S. attorney, who is a political appointee of the President, is a very powerful figure. His staff of prosecutors can usually wangle an indictment out of a grand jury on the flimsiest evidence — even if only to harass someone, for the prosecutor knows that, even if he hasn't a ghost of a chance of winning a conviction in a courtroom where the rules of evidence and cross-examination apply, the indicted person is still going to spend a fortune, and perhaps lose his health, worrying that the jury might never see the truth.

On the other hand, where for political and personal reasons the U.S. attorney and his staff want to go easy on indictments, the grand jury can be steered away from placing criminal charges against even the most culpable rascal.

The record is clear that in the first stages of this Watergate mess the prosecution was feeble. If it had been up to the U.S.

attorney and his staff here, President Nixon's top aides would have gone unscathed and the American public would have been left with the impression that a few Cubans and some ex-CIA cloak-and-dagger types just sort of met in a graveyard one night under a full moon and planned the burglaries, buggings and espionage on their own.

But they didn't get away with it this time because of the system of checks and balances embodied in our Constitution.

It will be easy enough for the judges, in their anger over the leaks to Anderson, to say, "Who needs the press in this case?" That is a plausible question because the Watergate judge, John J. Sirica, is not only an honest man, but he is tough and tenacious. He refused to let his courtroom become the scene of a namby-pamby prosecution which would accommodate a White House cover-up.

But let us not be so fast to discard the role of the press. It does, after all, share star billing with the judge in this episode of monumental public service.

Let us suppose that the judge handling this case had had less integrity, less guts than Sirica. And judges do come in all shapes and sizes, all degrees of honesty and intellect, you know.

With a lesser judge, and a U.S. attorney's office beholden to the White House, the public would have had nothing to lean on but a zealous free press.

So it is the public that Anderson serves when he prints what he can get about those grand jury proceedings.

And the judges don't have any business asking him where he got his information. It is their business to protect their grand jury proceedings and their transcripts, but not to hound newsmen as to where and how they learned what is going on.

And do remember that Watergate is a situation where half-phony leaks abound. The prosecution is dropping tidbits here and there to try to shake off the taint of an earlier shameful performance. Top officials in the White House are leaking bits of poison, trying to implicate other White House staffers and keep blame away from themselves or the President. Witnesses before the grand jury come out and make self-serving statements. Lawyers for those fearing indictment give their hide-saving versions of what took place in the jury room.

Why, then, does it become some kind of crime when an enterprising newsmen gives the public the documented truth instead of misleading leaks and self-serving recapitulations?

It is just plain galling to have prosecutors who, a few weeks ago, couldn't find an elephant in their bathroom suddenly crying that press revelations are hampering their investigation.

If this country ever had proof that the First Amendment guarantee of press freedom serves the public, and not reporters, this Watergate case is paramount proof.

So let us hope that the judges will get on with their job of dispensing justice and let Jack Anderson and the rest of the press get on with their business of telling a free people what they need to know to remain free.

Debate on abortion echoes in House

Faced with a U.S. Supreme Court decision that greatly liberalizes abortion laws, the Missouri House has been tussling with bills on both sides of the question. But on Tuesday night it did give tentative approval to a measure that interjects a much-needed element into the debate — the matter of conscience.

The House bill would exempt doctors, nurses and hospitals from performing abortions if it is against their religious or moral principles. It would no doubt face some severe legal tests as to its constitutionality, but at least it has the commendable intention of protecting those who find abortion-on-demand repugnant to their personal conscience.

Up to now the pro-abortion argument has rested almost entirely on the "rights" of the pregnant woman — her rights of "privacy," to "control her own body," etc.

But little has been said about the equally valid right, based soundly on religious and moral convictions, of persons and institutions NOT to lend their skills and facilities to the elimination of human life instead of its perpetuation.

"This bill merely recognizes the other side to the abortion question," Rep. Bob Griffin, D-Cameron, told his colleagues in House debate. "It recognizes the right of those who do not want to participate."

We can expect that the General Assembly may very well pass a more liberal abortion law in conformity with the Supreme Court's decision, which is, after all, the law of the land. But the House's "conscience bill" also should be given final approval, holding out as it does the very minimum in the way of protection for those who are not ready to accept the High Court's views on this grave question.

Merry-go-round

Pupfish put ahead of GOP supporter

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Forced to choose between 200 ugly, inedible pupfish or a millionaire GOP contributor, the Nixon administration has put the welfare of the pupfish first.

These tiny, wriggly, disagreeable-looking creatures have survived as a species for 10,000 years by sticking to themselves in Devils Hole, Nevada. In this single water hole — and nowhere else in the world — they feed and reproduce under the protection of the Interior Department.

Any substantial drop in the water level could end their Ice Age lineage in a couple of days. Yet the water ominously began to slip lower two years ago as a big rancher drilled wells nearby for irrigation.

The rancher, Francis L. Cappaert, a Vicksburg, Miss., millionaire, has been a major contributor to President Nixon's campaigns. He donated heavily to Nixon in both 1968 and 1972. The records for 1972, for example, show he scattered at least $207,000 among Nixon's various campaign kettles.

After Cappaert tapped into the water table and began pumping out the underground water, the level in Devils Hole began to sink. Interior hastily enlisted the Justice Department to help save the unique desert fish.

A few days ago, the Justice lawyers prevailed and a federal judge issued an injunction against the pumping. Result: The Ice Age pupfish no longer face extinction in a dry hole, although the Republicans may find a dry hole the next time they approach Cappaert for campaign funds.

ERRAND BOY: The powerful chemical companies have a new errand boy on Capitol Hill. He is an aggressive, articulate freshman, Rep. Samuel H. Young, R-Ill., who has put up a backstage battle to emasculate a bill designed to protect the health and environment against toxic substances.

In his eagerness to do the chemical industry's bidding, he made four separate attacks on a bill to control toxic substances. Each time, he was rebuffed by his colleagues on the House Commerce and Finance subcommittee.

Young didn't mention to his colleagues that his election campaign was heavily financed by chemical executives. Daniel J. Terra, president of Lawter Chemicals Inc., of Northbrook, Ill., funneled $10,000 to Young's campaign through four separate campaign committees.

Foster McGaw, past president of American Hospital Supply, a firm with extensive chemical interests, gave $4,200 to Young through two separate committees.

Indeed, our investigation indicates Terra was the sole contributor to the "Youth for Young" committee. He was joined only by McGaw on two other dummy committees.

Young explained to us that he "was trying to keep a broad new law within proper lines." He had no contact regarding the legislation with his chemical contributors, he added.

HOOVER'S HOARD: An American art collector has bought up at auction 50 items from J. Edgar Hoover's bric-a-brac collection and offered to put them on tour in the Soviet Union. Hoover's lifetime adversary.

In a letter to Soviet Culture Minister Yekaterina Furtseva, collector Robert Simmons of Washington conceded that the late FBI director was "a vigorous anti-Communist. At the same time, however, he was a warm and generous human being and, I am sure, would have been delighted by the latest developments in the field of

The collection, which we have seen in part, ranges from a handsome chess set to a handmade basket of popsicle sticks. There is also a whiskey decanter shaped like a hand grenade and another that plays "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." As Simmons confided to Furtseva, it is "not one of the Old Masters (but) a cross-section of one man's taste."

BRASS RING: The brass ring, good for a free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round, is awarded today to Joe Towne of Sacramento. The former Air Force radar technician developed eye cataracts after being exposed to microwave rays while he flew in electronic-bristling spy planes for nearly 10 years.

Since his 1966 retirement, he has won national recognition as the "Ralph Nader of Microwaves." With the help of his wife, Doty, he has deluged congressmen, newsmen and government officials with letters, urging them to look into the damaging effects of microwaves on eyes.

The office of Sen. John Tunney credits Towne, in part, with inspiring the Senate's first critical hearings on microwave and X-ray effects. Towne had looked forward to attending them. But he has been stricken with a coronary complication and the threat of amputation of both legs. He wonders if his circulatory problems couldn't also have been caused by radiation. Russian and Czech studies, he says, indicate this possibility.

Between his circulatory and cataract problems, however, he was unable to fly to the hearings he was so instrumental in precipitating.

Easter traffic trouble

By DOUG KNEIBERT

There is a scene by a French film director in which the end of the world comes in the form of a gigantic traffic jam. If this is going to be the case, then I caught a glimpse of the apocalypse last Sunday.

As you recall, a section of Interstate 70 was closed by high water, forcing Easter traffic to detour via Highway 5. This route intersects Highway 50 just east of Syracuse.

We were returning about 8 p.m. Sunday from spending the day in Jefferson City. All went well until we approached the Highway 5 junction. Then the first hint of trouble ahead presented itself in the form of a serpentine caravan of car lights, weaving its way south on Highway 5 and east on Highway 50 as far as the eye could see.

We were in it before I knew what happened. It was too late to escape. From then on to just east of Smithton it was bumper-to-bumper. If you averaged 5 miles an hour you were making good time.

But at least the westbound lane was MOVING. The poor devils heading east just sat there, fuming. One particularly sad case allowed as how he had spent five hours getting from Bothwell Lodge to Syracuse. Darkened service stations offered no help to those low on gas.

Most of the eastbound motorists turned their lights off; others shut down completely and went to sleep. Trooper Curt Mathews of the Highway Patrol, who worked the mess, told me one fellow in a VW couldn't be awakened, even by a patrol siren. He was finally jolted out of his slumber by the tractor-trailer truck behind him, which started pushing his car.

At Otterville I agonized over whether to peel off north on Route BB and take my chances on the back roads. But the vision of slipping off the pavement into some dark flooded bog led me to accept my present ills, rather than run to those I knew not of.

All the excitement brought out several of the young blades of Otterville, who lounged on their car hoods and watched the parade go by. I knew things were quiet around Otterville on a Sunday night, but I didn't think the boys were that desperate.

We finally pulled in home about two and a half hours later, and counted ourselves lucky. All in all, it was a night to remember.

Or to forget.

"I don't know anything about art, but I know what I like," says the man on the street. So says I about modern art (but mainly because I haven't tried to understand it), that term we carelessly use to describe everything after about 1907.

This is by way of introduction to my own modest, personal appreciation of Pablo Picasso — at least part of him — who died April 8 at the age of 91.

I have a small print of a Picasso painting I bought a few years ago at the Nelson Gallery in Kansas City. It's called Paysage Méditerranéen, and it was painted in 1952. I bought it on a whim, and for some time left it propped up on my desk, mainly to see if I would continue to like it enough to get a larger print and have it framed.

The painting has stood the test of time. I've tried to analyze why I like it, but really can't tell you. The painting shows the back view of a villa on the Mediterranean, a fishing boat and a couple of palm trees. The perspective is absolutely insane, the ocean is hardly sea-like, the figures, sticks, and the boat like no boat you have ever seen.

Yet taken as a whole, the picture shows me the IDEA of a villa on the Mediterranean better than anything I've ever seen in National Geographic. It has permanently enriched the mental image I have of the French Riviera. And it pleases me to look at it.

I don't know much about Picasso, but I know what I like.

It has been said that crime doesn't pay. We agree with the slight amendment that it doesn't pay often enough to make it worthwhile.

East's opening bid of one spade is one of those criminally absurd light third hand openings that usually lead to trouble. If South had let North play at three no-trump as he should have, the bid would have done its perpetrator no good, but South bid four hearts.

West opened his singleton spade. East took the ace and returned the nine of spades in the hope that if West held seven diamonds he would be smart enough to underlead the ace in response to the clear suit preference signal. All this came off and poor South was one down.

The game was IMP team and at the other table there was an even worse crime. North opened one club and without bothering to check for aces South went all the way to six hearts.

West opened the ace of diamonds and continued in the hope that East could ruff but South was the man to ruff, draw trumps and eventually discard his three spades on dummy's clubs and last diamond to make his slam when four had gone down at the other table.

USAC Late Models Under Green

Expect Shake-up in Stock Standings

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

The absence of the current United States Auto Club stock car division point leader Gordon Johncock, should lead to an overall shake-up by the time weekend USAC late model action is completed in Knoxville, Iowa and here.

Johncock, winner of the Texas 200 three weeks ago in College Station, has not filed an entry for either of the weekend's rich races. He is the current division leader with 250 points.

The standings could undergo a virtual overhauling if current runner-up Roger McCluskey doesn't participate. However, car owner Norm Nelson has entered the car in Sunday's "Missouri 100" at the Missouri State Fairgrounds, but is still unsure of whether he or McCluskey will be behind the wheel.

If both Johncock and McCluskey skip the weekend, Ramo Stott, who finished third at Texas, has the inside shot at taking over the point lead. Stott, one of three "Missouri 100" favorites from Keokuk, Iowa, is in third place in the standings with 180 points. A victory at Knoxville is worth 200 points to the winner, however, 250 points will be awarded to the winner of the "Missouri 100."

Johnny Rutherford, fourth-place finisher in Texas, is not entered either, nor is Clarence Lovell, who finished fifth.

But the sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth-place holders in the current standings are entered here Sunday and in Knoxville. Included are Jack Bowsher, whose 140 points is 10 more than Verlin Eaker, who is in seventh place.

Following Eaker are Ken Reiter and Bay Darnell. They have totals of 120 and 110 respectively and a hold down the eighth and ninth places in the standings.

The defending national USAC stock car champion Butch Hartman, is bogged down in a tie for 19th place with only 15 points.

Current USAC Late Model Standings
1. Gordon Johncock, 250; 2. Roger McCluskey, 210; 3. Ramo

'Missouri 100'

Late Filings Boost '100' Field to 38

Three late entries for Sunday's "Missouri 100" were reported Thursday afternoon by United States Auto Club stock division supervisor Bob Stroud, Indianapolis, Ind.

Heading the lineup is a 1973 Plymouth, which will be driven by former professional football player Bob Whitlow, Orchard Park, Mich. Other entries reported by Stroud for the USAC show on the Missouri State Fairgrounds' one-mile dirt track are those of Andy Hampton, Louisville, Ky., who finished 12th in the ARCA standings last year, and Ken Reiter, also of Louisville, who placed eighth in USAC's first outing at College Station, Tex., earlier this month.

Stroud said that Hampton will be behind the wheel of a 1973 Ford Torino, while Reiter entered a Plymouth.

Whitlow's racer is the same one that Roger McCluskey drove into victory lane at the Pocono, Pa. 500 last season.

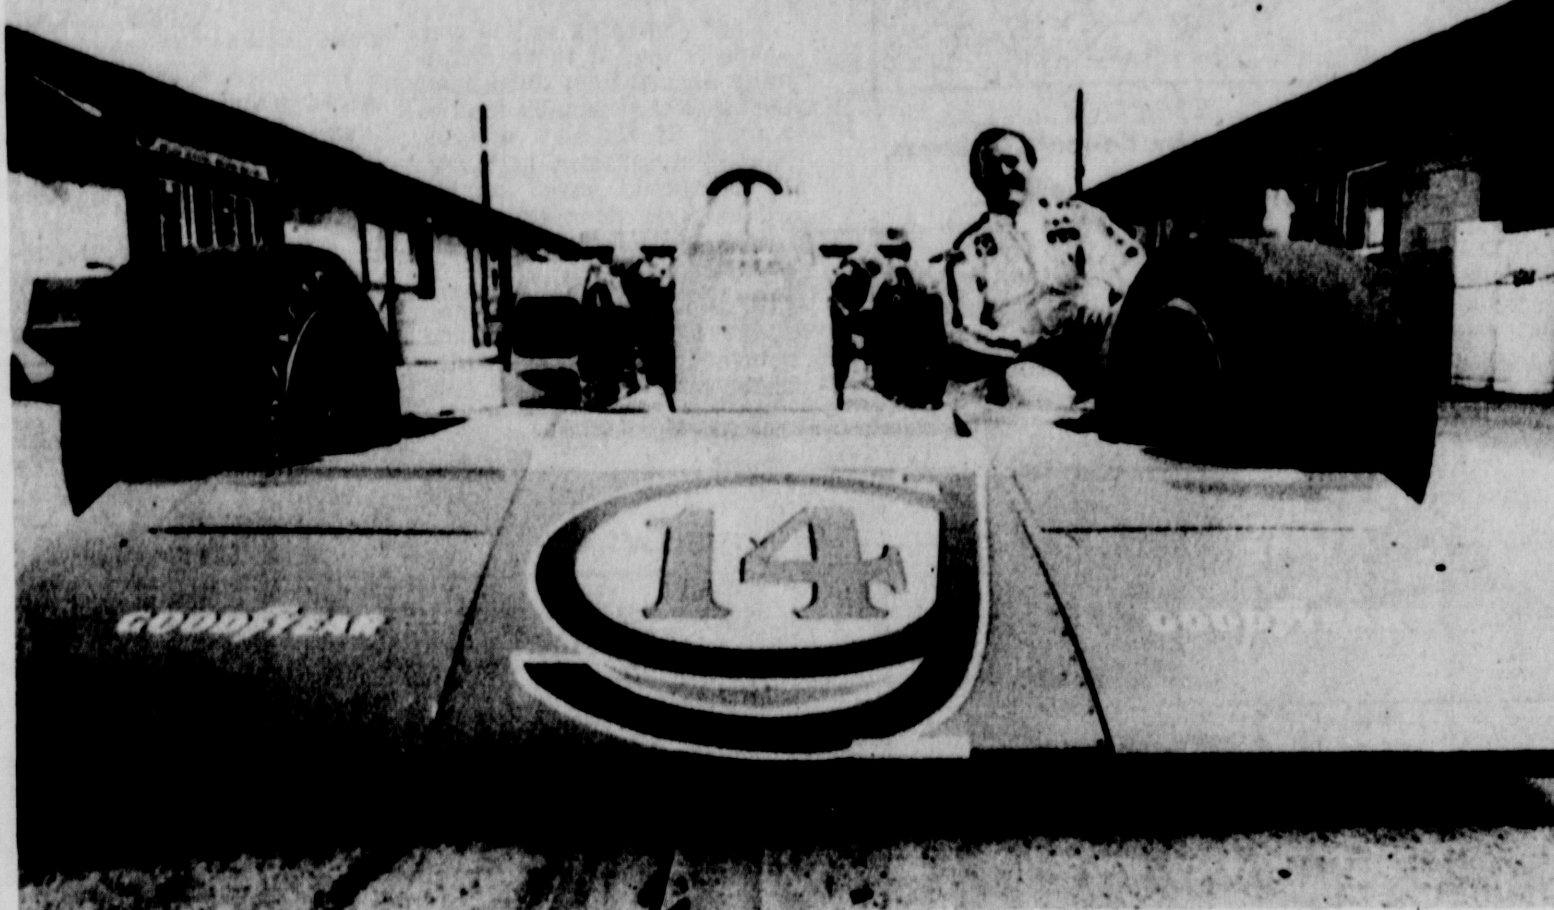

Whitlow, who played pro football with the New York Jets and the Cleveland Browns, purchased the car during the off-season. It actually is a 1972, but he replaced the body with that of a '73.

The car was built and owned by Norm Nelson last year. With the three Sunday's entry list now numbers 38. The fastest 30 in the time trials will make the field for the 100-mile feature event, which is scheduled to begin at 2:30 p.m.

Bill Austin, one of the promoters of the "Missouri 100" said Friday morning that ticket sales are already ahead of those last year, when Professional Auto Racing Promotions of Missouri staged the "Race of Champions" on the half-mile dirt track here.

He added that less than 25 per cent of the box seats are left, but plenty of the general admission seats are still available.

Advance tickets will be on sale all day Saturday at the Administration Building on the fairgrounds.

Indy Practice Opens Saturday

This year's new, wider, lower and faster Indianapolis 500 racing cars will begin filling the springtime air with their roar Saturday at the famed track as practice sessions open. Looking for the pot of gold at the end of the race will be A. J. Foyt, who is pictured above with his new Coyote. (UPI)

Jimmy 'The Greek' . . .

Doesn't Like Secretariat

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy "the Greek" Snyder scribbled the numbers and the numbers kept coming out Secretariat, but Jimmy's inner hunch spoke a different tune.

"I just don't like Secretariat—I don't know why, I just don't like Secretariat," the country's most renowned odds-maker said as he sought to fix an early line on the May 5 Kentucky Derby.

"I said before the Wood Memorial that this horse had no right to be a 1-5 odds-on choice. The race bore me out."

The winter book Derby favorite finished a disappointing third in the Wood behind his stable mate, Angle Light, and Sham.

"With Secretariat bracketed with Angle Light (Jimmy pronounced it 'Angel') as an object with wings rather than 'Angle' as what every good odds-maker should have," the Greek said, "you still have to make the entry a favorite at Louisville."

"But I can't see the entry any better than 2-1, certainly not 4-5 as they're quoting. I've said it before and I'll say it again—I still think they're putting ice packs on Secretariat's knees."

Jimmy the Greek stopped in New York overnight on his way overseas on a business trip. With phones ringing every minute, he found it almost impossible to relax in his seventh floor suite at a Park Avenue Hotel.

Jimmy's raven hair is beginning to show flakes of snow around the edges. He is a massive man with massive energy.

always on the move with his public relations and odds-making enterprises in Las Vegas. TV commercials and public appearances.

"I'd make Sham 3-1 second choice in the Derby," he said, "and the rest of it is a scramble with the picture thrown into further confusion by My Gallant's win the Blue Grass Stakes at Lexington Thursday."

Quickly scanning the sports horizon, the Las Vegas Wizard of Odds picked Bobby Riggs 7-5 over Margaret Court in their forthcoming tennis Battle of the Sexes; the Los Angeles Lakers 8-5 over the Knicks and 13-10 over the Celtics in the NBA basketball playoffs; Pittsburgh and Baltimore to clash in the baseball World Series, the Miami Dolphins to win the football Super Bowl again and Jack Nicklaus a 3-1 favorite every time he tees up the ball in golf.

With these predictions, Jimmy took off across the Atlantic.

Booth, Barry Meet Again for Crown

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Television has its instant replay. Golf has a delayed version.

The 71st North and South Amateur Tournament for women was down to the 18-hole finals today with Jane Booth of Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., meeting Curtis Cup teammate Beth Barry of Mobile, Ala., her 2 and 1 victim in last year's title match.

It marked the first time in 32 years that finalists repeated in consecutive years.

Mrs. Booth, 25, gained her place with a 6 and 5 semifinals rout of two-time champion Nancy Roth Syms of Colorado Springs, Colo. Miss Barry, 24, ousted Janet Coles, the 18-year-old medalist from Aptos, Calif., 4 and 3.

In winning four matches, Mrs. Booth has been four under par and has played only 54 holes. Miss Barry has played 60 holes in five over par.

Smith Advances

GOTEBORG, Sweden — Top-seeded Stan Smith, Pasadena, Calif., defeated Harold Solomon, Silver Spring, Md., 6-1, 6-1 to advance to the quarter-finals in the $50,000 Swedish Pro Tennis Championships.

Jr. High Track

Thinclads Split With Tigers

The Smith-Cotton freshman track team dropped a 70-41 dual decision to Warrensburg in Jennie Jaynes Stadium, Thursday, but the Sedalia Junior High school eighth grade picked up the slack, defeating Warrensburg, 77-23.

The freshmen picked up six firsts in their competition. Mike Riley threw the shot 50-6 to win that field event by more than five feet.

Tony Dabney bested the open quarter-mile field with a time of 57.1; the 220-yard dash went to Victor Dabney, 24.8; Bob Trautman won the discus with a throw of 136-3; Henry Klover was first in the pole vault at 9-0; while Doug Slagel placed first in the high jump at 5-0.

The SJH squad won 10 of the 12 events in their competition with the visiting Tigers.

The next action for the squads will be in Jefferson City on May 4.

Bennett Cops Most Awards

(Democrat-Capital Service)

LA MONTE — All-state junior guard Glyndon "Buggar" Bennett walked away with an armload of honors at the LaMonte High School athletic banquet Thursday evening.

Bennett received the Most Valuable Player award, the Hustle award, and was honored for leading the Vikings in scoring, field goal percentage and assists.

Teammate Darrell Oswald, who complemented Bennett's offensive strength throughout the year, was noted as the leading field goal percentage shooter. Don Hittaffer was named defensive player of the year, and Rick Jones was named most improved athlete. A special award donated by S-M Sporting Goods was given to Hittaffer as the outstanding athlete of the year as voted by his teammates.

Bennett and Oswald were recognized for their all-conference selections, and Bennett was also recognized for being selected to the all-district and all-state Class S teams.

Janie Jones and Ann Hughes were recognized as all-conference volleyball selections; Miss Hughes was named best girl athlete.

Nancy Patrick and Toni Gill were given all-conference honorable mention honors.

The awards were presented by coaches Larry Ficken, Marsha Turner and Kay Byers. All letters for basketball, baseball, volleyball and softball were presented.

Milwaukee Roughs Up Royals in 9th

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Dave May of the Milwaukee Brewers says he doesn't "hate" em. I just like to hit against 'em."

May referred to the Kansas City Royals. He had ample reason because Thursday night he hit the first grand slam home run of his career to give the Brewers a 7-3 victory over the Royals.

"I sure like to hit against this club," May said. "And the New York Yankees, too."

The Yankees were fresh on May's mind since he got a two-run homer off Mel Stottlemyre last Friday night that beat the boys from the Bronx 2-0.

Lee Trevino Cards Nine-over Par 79

DALLAS (AP) — Lee Trevino, who says he is "sick and tired of flinching every time I swing at the ball," will have to wait at least another week to become a golfing millionaire because of an injury suffered while fishing for bass.

Trevino, about $14,000 short of joining Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Billy Casper in the $1-million category, shot himself out of the Byron Nelson Golf Classic Thursday with a nine-over-par 79 which included a fat 45 on the back side.

Don Bies of Seattle, whose greatest accomplishment was beating Arnold Palmer head-on in a match play tournament, battled wind and cold to take the first-round lead with a five-under-par 65.

"The pain killed me when I swung at the ball on the back nine," Trevino said. "I shot 45 and I can't ever remember shooting 45 before—not even when I was eight years old."

Trevino said he injured the shoulder six weeks ago. A doctor diagnosed his problem as a pulled muscle. But Trevino wasn't satisfied and sought another doctor for an X ray after Thursday's round.

"I don't know how it can be a muscle when it hurts all the way to my rib cage," Trevino said. "It tightened up on me when the rain and cold hit. I don't hook the ball...I fade it."

David Graham of Australia and Roy Pace of Longview, Tex., were within striking distance with three-under-par 67's. Rick Massengale, Bob Murphy and Bruce Devlin shot 68's.

Defending champion Chi Chi Rodriguez was in a group of seven at one-under-par 69. Arnold Palmer was at 71.

Gene Cotton Is Named New Coach at Stover

(Democrat-Capital Service) STOVER — The varsity basketball coaching post at Stover High School has been filled.

Gene Cotton, 28, who for the past two years was the head basketball coach at Walker, Mo. High School, will assume similar duties here next fall.

Cotton is a graduate of Southwest Baptist College, Bolivar, Mo., where he played both varsity basketball and baseball.

He is married and has one child.

Cotton will take over the varsity cage duties from Dean Ringen, who announced his resignation last month.

He will also coach varsity baseball. That post was left open, when Dave Grupe announced his resignation in March. Grupe will return to Central Missouri State College to complete work on his master's degree.

Cotton will teach physical education and health.

out. The ball hit down on the lower part of the bat, very low. I've hit lots of better balls. I hit the triple harder. I thought maybe it would be a double the way it took off but it went out of here."

The Brewers went into the ninth trailing 3-2 and had only three hits off Ken Wright, who struck out 10. John Briggs opened with a single, and Gene Garber relieved Wright with a 2-1 count on Ollie Brown. Garber struck Brown out.

Darrell Porter singled, sending Briggs to third. Joe LaHoud, who came out to pinch hit with a .074 batting average, singled to right, scoring Briggs to tie the game. Hal McRae's error on the play advanced the runners.

Dal Canton replaced Garber, 2-1, and walked Pedro Garcia intentionally, filling the bases. Up came May, who unloaded into the right field seats.

May, who arrived on the major league scene first in 1967, had this to say about his fourth home run of the campaign coming with the bases loaded: "It's about time."

The Sedalia Stars, the newly-organized semi-professional baseball club, will open their 1973 season Sunday, 2 p.m., in Columbia, on the American Legion field.

The Stars' first home game is scheduled in Liberty Park Stadium, May 13.

Boxing Red Dies

NEW YORK — Frank Fullam, 64, a former boxing referee and judge, died after a prolonged illness.

O-U-T!!! Milwaukee's Bob Coluccio (26) is called out by home plate umpire Jim Evans in the third inning of the Royals' game, Thursday night, in Kansas City. Coluccio tried to score when Don Money fled out to Lou Piniella in left field. Piniella's one-hop throw was handled by catcher Jerry May, who made the tag on Coluccio, before being bowled over by his slide. The Brewers rallied for five runs in the top of the ninth to whip the Royals, 7-3. (UPI)

NY Knicks Could Wrap Up Celts Series Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Silas and Dave DeBusschere, two of the best rebounders and defensive forwards in basketball, will resume their private war within a war tonight when the New York Knicks seek to end their National Basketball Association playoff series against the Boston Celtics.

The Knicks lead the Celtics 3-2 in the best-of-7 Eastern Conference finals and a victory in tonight's nationally televised (ABC, 9 p.m., EST) game would move them into the NBA finals against the defending champion Los Angeles Lakers, who beat Golden State 4-1 in the West.

Meanwhile, the American Basketball Association's championship playoff series between the Kentucky Colonels and Indiana Pacers gets under way Saturday in a nationally televised game at Louisville, Ky.

Both teams finished second during the regular season, but Kentucky defeated Carolina 4-3 for the East Division title and Indiana took Utah 4-2 for the West Division crown.

Silas, the 6-foot-7 veteran who came to the Celtics from Phoenix following last season in exchange for the rights to Charlie Scott, was an unlikely hero in Boston's 98-97 victory in Game No. 5 Wednesday night. He scored just nine points—but they included a 30-foot bank shot that was the Celtics' only basket in the final eight minutes, and two free throws with seven seconds left on the clock which put the Celtics on top for good.

DeBusschere, meanwhile, has done his usual workmanlike job, which has been good enough to earn him All-Star and All-NBA defensive team honors. He's averaging 17.8 points and 9.4 rebounds per game against Boston, and knows he'll have to concentrate on keeping Silas away from the boards.

If the Celtics win, the seventh and deciding game will be played in Boston Sunday afternoon. If not, the Knicks go on to meet Los Angeles—and Boston, the team with the best regular-season record in the NBA, will go home.

Loughery Takes Over New York Nets Post

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Whether you say Kevin Loughery is coming to New York or prefer to say he's leaving Philadelphia, the results are the same—the 76ers have lost a coach and the Nets have gained one.

Loughery, who replaced Roy Rubin at midseason and guided the 76ers to five wins and 26 losses, has signed a five-year contract as coach of the ABA's New York Nets.

The 33-year-old Loughery, however, preferred to stress the positive of being in New York rather than the negative of not being in Philadelphia. "I just couldn't turn down the opportunity to come back to New York," said the former St. John's University star. But he added that a disagreement with Philadelphia General Manager Don DeJardin over the 76ers' draft selections was a factor in his decision to switch jobs.

Loughery replaces Lou Carnesecca, who quit as coach and general manager of the Nets to return to St. John's as head coach and assistant athletic director. "This has got to be one of the best jobs in pro basketball," Loughery said. "The team and the organization have grown but there's still so much room to develop. Most franchises have reached their peak already."

Ted Sizemore on Disabled List

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals' leading hitter, second baseman Ted Sizemore, was placed on the 15-day disabled list Thursday due to a leg injury suffered Wednesday night.

Sizemore, who is hitting .333, suffered a hamstring injury when he tried to beat a double play relay to first base in the first inning of a game against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Cardinals also announced they were sending lefthanded pitcher John Andrews to their Tulsa farm club. Andrews had compiled a 5.14 earned run average in seven games this spring.

Shortstop Mike Kelleher and lefthander Rich Fellers were recalled from Tulsa to fill the roster, the Cardinals announced.

The Cardinals said an inflammation of the left ankle would sideline reserve infielder Mike Tyson during the weekend series with the San Francisco Giants.

Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants has an 18-20 record against the St. Louis Cardinals.

Staff Members Alter Records

Admit Guilt in OU Grid Case

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — School Supt. Eli Douglas says two staff members of Galveston Ball High School altered the records of former pupils Kerry Jackson and Michael Phillips to coincide with records at the University of Oklahoma.

Douglas said Thursday he has completed an investigation into the affair and termed it "mistakes of the heart and not of the head because of over-zealous professionals attempting to help a boy."

The alteration raised Jackson's class standing to make him eligible to play football at Oklahoma.

Oklahoma has ruled the two ineligible for next season and forfeited eight of last season's games including its Sugar Bowl victory over Penn State. Douglas said it is his belief that neither of the youths had any part in these actions or even knew about them.

Douglas declined to name the two staff members but said he will make recommendations concerning them at next Wednesday's board meeting.

The superintendent also said one of the Ball High staff members and a staff member from Oklahoma attempted to influence Ball High principal Jim Watson last summer to help Jackson enter the university by writing an untruthful letter about Jackson's class stand.

Douglas said Watson refused. He said his investigation showed that after school began last fall a Ball High staff member received a telephone call from the university asking that Jackson's official transcript be altered to match the one on file at Oklahoma.

Douglas said the two staff members admitted making the change when he asked them during his investigation.

Stover Still Undeclared In Kaysinger Baseball

(Democrat-Capital Service)

STOVER — Stover assured itself of no worse than a tie for the Kaysinger Conference baseball championship here Thursday with an 8-1 victory over Lincoln.

The win keeps the Bulldogs' league record unblemished at 6-0; the only game left on Stover's loop schedule is with Cole Camp on May 9.

Paul Marriott, who smacked a solo home run in the fourth inning, picked up the win. Tracy Meuschke was the loser.

Stover was held in check by starter Eddie Pickens in the first three innings, but Pickens had to be lifted in the fourth, when he suffered an injury, rounding second base.

In the softball game, Lincoln edged Stover, 8-7, as Debbie Schlesselman was credited with the decision. Lana Capps was the losing pitcher.

Reports Allege FBI Head Destroyed Files of Hunt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three newspapers Friday reported that Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III destroyed politically sensitive documents belonging to Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr. after being told by presidential aides that the files "should never see the light of day."

The Washington Post, The New York Daily News and The New York Times said the files included fake State Department cables purporting to implicate the late President John F. Kennedy in the 1963 assassination of South Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem.

The Times quoted associates of Gray as saying that John Ehrlichman, chief presidential domestic-affairs adviser, told White House Counsel John W. Dean III: "You drive over the bridge every night, why don't you throw them (the Hunt files) over?"

The Post said that on June 28, 1972, two weeks after the break-in of Democratic headquarters in the Watergate, Ehrlichman suggested to Dean: "You go across the river every day. Why don't you drop the ... things in the river?"

The Post and Daily News said Gray destroyed the files after being told by Dean and Ehrlichman that the documents should "never see the light of day." The Times said the statement was made by Dean.

The Post story said the files also included a dossier on Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and the 1969 accident at Chappaquiddick Island, Mass., in which a secretary riding with the senator was killed.

There have been reports for some time that one of Hunt's duties as a White House consultant was to collect files on Sen. Kennedy, who in 1972 was considered a possible candidate for president.

Ehrlichman, in a statement issued through the White House Thursday night, denied that he ever ordered Gray to destroy the files. But he said the "matter has been under investigation" by President Nixon's special Watergate prosecutor since April 15.

Ehrlichman confirmed that at a June 1972 meeting in the White House, Dean gave Gray a sealed envelope containing "some of the contents of the Hunt safe" in the Executive Office Building.

"Mr. Gray was told by Mr. Dean that the contents (of the envelope) were sensitive materials not in any way related to the Watergate case," Ehrlichman said. "I was present but neither then nor at any other time did I give Mr. Gray any request, suggestion or instruction regarding what should be done with the contents."

Ehrlichman said he did not know the nature of the contents and until April 15 assumed Gray still had the envelope. "I learned certain new facts concerning the contents of the Hunt safe on April 15, 1973."

Private Pension Assets Increasing

NEW YORK (AP) — American workers now have at least $137 billion in private pension assets. Of at least 30 million workers covered, 4.7 million are receiving annual benefits that exceed $7.4 billion a year.

These figures are all minimums, because they were compiled in 1970. Growth since then has been swift in many respects, and assets by 1980 are projected to exceed $250 billion. In 1940 they totaled $2.4 billion.

The consequences grow too, not only for workers covered but for the entire economy of the nation. Even in a trillion-dollar economy, a sum in the billions carries great power.

Banks depend upon it, the stock market needs it, corporations rely on it as a source of capital financing. Thousands of bankers, lawyers, trustees and other professionals, and many times that number of ancillary workers, earn their living from it.

And there is still another great consequence, perhaps more potential than real. That is the possibility of fraud, conspiracy or other misuse of funds by those who manage them.

Waite Loses Weight; Now Counsels Others

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A man who's lost 85 pounds himself says most people trying to lose weight go about it the wrong way.

"A woman might say, 'Well, my problem is that I've got to lose 50 pounds,'" says David G. Waite. "But if they don't look at their internal needs, the real reasons they overeat, they're not going to solve their problems."

Waite, who has a master's degree in rehabilitation, has been offering counseling services for weight-losing programs at Western Michigan colleges. He got into the field after peeling off his own poundage.

Waite says he has devised a "total" program for weight reduction. "Through counseling, persons gradually come to see why they overeat, and to get new meaning and purpose in life. They are better able to handle their problems, problems they might not have been aware of."

He admits he's not a nutritionist and doesn't count calories. "People don't succeed that way; it gets too complicated for them ... and there really isn't a perfect weight goal chart because people all have different builds."

Waite says obesity is one of the biggest problems in the country. "Statistics show the average American woman lives eight years longer than the man."

the presidential adviser said. "I promptly reported my findings to the President the same day and they were relayed to Mr. Petersen, the assistant attorney general. The matter has been under investigation by him since then."

In a comprehensive pension study just released, Bankers Trust describes how "the man on Main Street probably imagines a perpetual series of conspiracies for the control of corporations."

The ingredients of the "plot" are that billions of dollars of stock are held by pension funds, which are managed by banks. Other institutions, like investment trusts and insurers, hold billions more.

Now add to this recipe the fact that "the directors of these institutions know one another and work within the narrow radius of the lower end of Manhattan" and you have the makings of problems.

Despite these major national considerations it is the personal stake in pensions that concerns most workers and their families. And yet many workers know very little of their rights and expectations.

It is for reasons such as these that various congressional committees are studying many proposals to set standards for fiduciary responsibilities, vesting, disclosure of information and funding.

Reason to Smile

Major Robert D. Jeffrey and wife Joy got to smile quite a bit these days ... his days as a POW are over. The latest smiles come from two letters he wrote while a POW which was mailed from Hanoi in March and arrived at the Jeffrey residence in Dallas recently. The stamps on them depict animals, a POW and U.S. aircraft being shot down. (UPI)

Shultz Denies Nixon Considering Tax Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saying a high-ranking administration official was misunderstood when speaking of a possible tax hike, Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz has denied that President Nixon is considering an increase.

Shultz commented on an interview earlier in the week by Chairman Herbert F. Stein of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, who said "we are studying the possibility" of tax increases to slow down the economy.

Interviewed on the National Public Affairs Center for Television Thursday, Shultz said Stein's comments "were misunderstood."

"We are going to propose a program on Monday on behalf of the President ... that will aim at greater equity in the tax system and greater simplicity for the taxpayer in trying to understand that system and fill out his or her tax form," Shultz said, adding:

"But that's a very different thing from any ... proposal for an increase in taxes. There will be no such proposal."

He declined to go into more detail on the upcoming proposals. Meanwhile, Sen. William Proxmire Friday said if Nixon proposes a tax increase, "I will do my best to kill it."

The Wisconsin Democrat, vice chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, noted some administration suggestions such as an increase might be in the works as an anti-inflation move.

"It would be a harsh and outrageous act at a time when the administration is wasting billions in unneeded subsidies, excessive military aid spending, foreign military aid to some 46 countries in the world, and for frivolous items like servants for the military brass and limousines for every minor bureaucrat in Washington."

Also Thursday, AFL-CIO President George Meany urged Congress to reject President Nixon's proposal for expanding trade with the Soviet Union by granting the Soviets a most-favored trade status.

"There is no reason to believe that such treatment will lead the U.S.S.R. to make earnest efforts for removing the causes of international tension and promoting equitable and lasting world peace," Meany said in a prepared New York speech at the Congressional Medal of Honor Society's annual Patriot's Award Dinner.

Strong Credit System Will Be Needed More

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Agriculture Department official said Friday that a strong, responsive credit system will be needed even more urgently by American farmers as they seize the opportunities of full production and expanding world markets.

J. Phil Campbell, under secretary of agriculture, said the government is encouraging growth of farm income by freeing the farmer's ability to respond to demand. Compared with 61.7 million acres set aside in 1972, only 19.1 million acres are set aside this year.

"To free an estimated 42.6 million acres for production naturally increases the farmer's need for credit, and the farm credit system undoubtedly will meet the challenge again," he said.

Campbell's comments were made in connection with the 50th anniversary of the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks and the 40th anniversary of the Production Credit Associations.

"One of the few sectors of our economy still operating in the vigorous give and take of supply and demand, American agriculture has always needed sources of credit that fully understood a farmer's problems and the risks he takes," he said.

"Unfortunately, there was a time when farmers were handicapped by creditors who did not understand the risks in farming or who took advantage of a farmer when he fell on hard times. And with devastating weather, new strains of insects, dock strikes and any number of other threats to successful harvest and marketing always a danger, farmers could and did fall on hard times," he said.

Agriculture experts, he said, see a vigorous growth period ahead for farmers.

Resent upsurges in world demand for wheat, feed grains and soybeans, while based to a significant degree on crop-damaging weather and a shortage of fish protein meal, are indicative of high demand for such crops in the near and distant future, he said.

"Faced with an opportunity to improve his income by supplying an increased demand, the American farmer is moving to expand his production that year. Though soybean plantings last year were three million acres over the preceding year, they are expected to be still another seven million acres higher this year. Acres planted to feed grains are expected to be six per cent higher than in 1972," Campbell said.

Crackdown on Poaching In Kansas Is Planned

PRATT, Kan. (AP) — A crackdown on deer poaching is planned by the Kansas Forestry, Fish, and Game Commission. Assistant Director Fred Warders says game protectors across the state report the poaching situation is bad, although firm statistics are not available on illegal deer kills.

Big game biologist Bill Peabody of Emporia says Kansas could issue 2,000 to 3,000 more hunting permits yearly if poaching could be stopped, but that if poaching is not reduced by fall fewer permits may have to be issued.

Peabody estimates the Kansas deer herd at 18,000 to 20,000 head, with 8,000 to 10,000 fawns born last year.

Game officials say enforcing the law is difficult and that concerned sportsmen may be asked to exert pressure against hunters known to be poaching. Game protectors say they have been harassed when closing in on poachers, with manure dumped in gas tanks, dead birds stuffed in their mailboxes and in one case a brick thrown through a game protector's car window.

The board was scheduled to vote on organizing an instructional television council at its closing session Friday. The council would have 15 members, appointed by the board, and would advise the board on instructional television. Arthur Mallory, state education commissioner, said more than 400,000 of the state's 1,084,000 public school students are getting some type of instruction by television.

Mallory, in an interview Thursday, said his department will publish within the next month a task force's recommendations on school finance reform. Those results first were released last year.

He said he hopes to meet with state legislative leaders within the next two months to discuss school finance reform. A bill should be written by December for the 1974 legislative session, he said.

Bus System Improvements Are Proposed

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A series of improvements for the bus system in the St. Louis area, including lower fares, was proposed Thursday at a meeting of the Bi-State Development Agency's board of commissioners.

The improvements, which would be financed by a one-half cent sales tax, would reduce adult bus fares from 45 cents to 25 cents, reduce fares for senior citizens during non-peak hours from 45 cents to 15 cents and make cuts in some differential charges.

The financially troubled Bi-State bus system operates in the Missouri and Illinois portions of the St. Louis area.

The commissioners' plan also called for a minibuss operation in areas of north St. Louis and the beginning of a dial-a-bus service for handicapped persons. Some bus routes would be extended and more buses added in the metropolitan area.

A bill is being considered by the Missouri Senate to permit the city and county of St. Louis to impose the half-cent tax, which would raise some $17 million a year for Bi-State.

The Missouri House has already approved the plan.

Sue Federal Government

Mr. and Mrs. Harry John of Baltimore have sued the federal government for $10 million for the death of their son Warren, 23, during Marine Corps boot

Advertising Sells Vitamin E

Dear Dr. Lamb — I read an article in "Cosmopolitan" concerning vitamin E. Millions of laymen are saying that vitamin E can possibly cure (or at least relieve) symptoms of such diseases as emphysema. I'd like to know a little about vitamin E, and if it can do all or any of what is claimed.

Dear Reader — I receive an enormous number of letters asking about vitamin E. This is not surprising in view of the very effective advertising campaign used to tout the supposed benefits of vitamin E.

The American Medical Assn. agrees that we need a small amount of vitamin E. But even if we do not get that in our diet, there is no evidence that this is any disturbance in the body's normal function. This is quite different from most other vitamins which have definite roles in the human body, such as vitamin C. If you don't get enough vitamin C over a long period of time specific changes can be identified, including the development of scurvy, a well-known disease.

The same can be stated for lack of thiamine and other vitamins. The only evidence in man of a need for vitamin E is in certain conditions in premature infants and a few rare medical conditions.

At the last national meeting of the American Heart Assn. Dr. Robert E. Olson, one of the nationally prominent investigators, reported that after an evaluation of vitamin E there was no evidence that it was beneficial in preventing or curing heart disease. Many lucky individuals who do well after recovery from a heart attack would have done well whether they took vitamin E or not. Some patients get well in spite of their doctors rather than because of us. A discerning doctor learns this.

An article in the January issue of "Consumer Reports" on vitamin E reports 60 ailments, including emphysema, which are mistakenly touted as having being prevented, or treated by vitamin E. In short, many of the things that vitamin E is touted to cure or prevent are not benefited.

How then do you account for the number of people who claim to have benefits from vitamin E? This is simple. Doctors have known for years that they can give placebos, such as sugar pills and pink water, to their patients and a number of them will feel markedly better. Many quack cures depend upon this response, which is really based on the person's faith in his medicine.

The mind has a curious and powerful influence on how the body responds and how we feel. For this reason competent scientists investigate new treatments, a pill or even a surgical procedure, by carefully designed research methods and statistical analysis. Such methods are planned to eliminate chance, faith healing and coincidence. The doctor's enthusiasm also has an effect on how the patient feels.

Individuals who have responded well to treatment, even if it is pink water, are sold on the treatment and their doctor. Modern scientific experimental methods help to prevent both the doctor and the patient from being deceived.

I know these remarks about vitamin E will not set well with many people, but facts are facts and scientific investigations of vitamin E have proved that most of the claims that have been made for it have little or no basis.

OATS Program Explained

A meeting to explain and initiate the Older Adults Transportation Service (OATS) program was held Thursday evening in the assembly room of the Pettis County Courthouse.

About 45 elderly and handicapped individuals attended the meeting, which was hosted by Carl Franklin, chairman of the transportation service board of directors: Rich Westphal, regional director of the Council on Aging of the Show-Me Regional Planning Commission; and Frank Schwarzer, executive director of the Commission.

OATS, as explained by Westphal, will provide transportation service to members 55 years of age or older or handicapped individuals in a 16-count y area. The service was reportedly made possible by a grant provided by the Office of Aging of the Missouri Department of Community Affairs.

During the course of the meeting a survey form was distributed to be used to determine travel routes and time schedules. According to the response and demand of the members, transportation will be provided for medical, shopping and social needs. The service offered will be "door to door" but it was emphasized by Franklin that the program "will not be run as a cab service."

During a question and answer discussion, it was stated by one individual attending that he knew of several older persons living in Sedalia's housing project who were prevented from coming to Thursday night's meeting due to the high cost of taxi fares.

The cost of service, as related by Westphal, consists of buying a $1 share in the Co-operative, a $5 annual contribution fee, and a per-mile charge which depends upon the amount of service the area requests. The service is owned by the shareholders and administered by a board of directors the shareholders choose, it was noted.

Membership fees will be collected as soon as membership cards and shares arrive. Westphal anticipated that actual service would begin in mid-July.

Franklin said that the system will begin with five new 14-passenger vans and will be expanded if required by future demand. Complete insurance coverage will be provided and drivers will be trained to help those individuals needing assistance getting on and off the bus, it was reported.

ERA Before Committee Next Week

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A resolution for Missouri to ratify the Women's Equal Rights Amendment to the U. S. Constitution will be considered Monday night by the House Constitutional Amendments Committee.

The announcement was made Thursday by Rep. Howard E. Hines, D-Independence, chairman of the committee, proponents of the amendment had accused him of sitting on the measure.

Five proponents walked out of the committee several weeks ago, saying they were disgusted with attempts to kill the resolution in committee.

Later, the House speaker,

Rep. Richard Rabbitt, D-St. Louis, said he thought the committee would report it out favorably and the House would approve it. But Rabbitt said he had doubts whether it would pass the Senate.

The same resolution was defeated by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

We're easy to get a loan with.

Some banks believe in the "red tape" treatment for loan customers. We believe in the "red carpet" treatment. You ask for a loan, personal or business, we look for ways to give it to you. We give you a fast answer, not a song and dance. We treat you like a neighbor, not a number. Getting a loan here is about the easiest thing in the world.
